LINER SINKS U. S. PATROL BOAT

Boston Vessel Destroyed by Submarine

TERRIFIC BATTLE ON THE SOMME

TAKEN FOR U-BOAT; 17 LOST

Submarine Chaser Sunk by Liner; Nine of Survivors Brought to Port

Washington, Aug. 27.—The commander, executive officer and fifteen members of the crew of submarine chaser 209 are missing following the sinking of the craft by another steamship in mistake for a German submarine the Navy Department announced this afternoon. Nine survivors have been landed, eight at New York and one at Lewes, Delaware.

Of the nine survivors, four were wounded, said the navy department announcement. The four wounded are Thomas Harris, Claude Wilde, Clarence S. Evans and H. A. Corcoran.

The remaining five survivors are Elmer E. Gleason, Elmer S. Kirby, Claude Kalmey, Charles N. Thomas and George B. Weigand. The steamer that fired on the chaser was the Felix Taussig. The encounter occurred at 3 o'clock this morning but the exact location was not revealed in the navy department announcement.

According to an official information received at an Atlantic port, the patrolboat had been operating along the coast in search of enemy submarines and was making her way to her base when she was sighted by the merchant vessel. According to reports the gunerew of the merchant vessel opened fire immediately and with deadly accuracy. Half a dozen shots were fired, and nearly every one of them struck the patrol boat.

Apparently the merchant ship proceeded on its course, the officers believing that the encounter had been with an enemy submarine. A United States destroyer, plying nearby hurried to the scene when the watch reported hearing the shots fired by the merchant ship. The destroyer arrived in time to pick up the survivors.

Caught in Boches' Trap, "Bunt" Cohen Fought Way Out With Pick

By International News Service.

New York, Aug. 27.—Caught in a German trap and armed only with picks and shovels, "Bunt" Cohen, famous amateur baseball player of the Pacific coast and nephew of H. A. Gunst, western tobacco capitalist, and a small group of California engineers attached to the British army, weathered a terrific attack of German bullets and bayonets and finally licked the enemy with rocks and bare fists.

Arriving today at the base hospital at Ellis Island to be treated for shattered nerves, Cohen related what can obviously be styled "the hottest, wildest adventure of the war."

When the scrimmage, which occurred near Cambrai, was over, Cohen found himself standing over a dead German with whom he had fought for nearly 15 minutes. He was alone and wounded.

He made tracks as fast as he could for the allied lines, where he thought he could find his company. He was away off his mark and stumbled into another hot fight—this time between the Boches and U. S. marines. He

PRESS MUZZLED ON AIRCRAFT, SAYS LODGE

Senator Declares Embargo on News Sent Abroad Aims to Keep America Ignorant

Washington, Aug. 27.—By prohibiting newspapers and magazines containing the report of the Senate Aircraft Investigating Committee from going abroad, the administration sought to keep the facts of the aircraft situation from the American people, Senator Lodge, Republican leader, charged on the floor of the Senate this afternoon.

"It seems to me the purpose is perfectly plain," he said. "The tendency of this prohibition would be to make newspapers refrain from printing matter that could not be sent abroad, and which if printed would therefore cause them financial loss.

"The only people in the world who don't know the aircraft situation are the American people. It is well known to our allies, and the enemy. Of course, if newspapers omit all mention of it, the facts won't reach the American people.

CZECHO-SLOVAK ARMY CAPTURES BOLESHEVIKI

London, Aug. 27.—General Semenoff, who commands a force of several thousand Czecho-Slovaks, is advancing against strong forces of the Bolshevik army and has taken many prisoners, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Tientsin. The enemy forces are concentrating in great numbers, the advices add, and are believed to have destroyed the railway tunnels on the edge of Lake Baikal in an effort to impede General Semenoff's progress.

23 KILLED AS FOE SHELLS RED CROSS

Sixty Others Wounded as Germans Violate Flags on Refugee Centre

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Twenty-three were killed and sixty injured when the Germans shelled a Red Cross bathhouse and refugee centres behind the Belgian lines, according to a cable reaching Red Cross headquarters here today.

The buildings were plainly marked. The first shell struck a laundry, which was the centre of three buildings, where 200 persons were employed. All were refugees who had been driven from their homes when the Germans advanced.

One little girl, Pauline Vurles, had both legs blown off by a fragment of shell and after the bombardment was over, a soldier brought in a bundle containing the arm of a little boy.

OFFICERS DISCUSS HEALTH OF THE ARMY

Major-General William Crozier, commanding the Department of the Northeast, today presided at a conference upon social diseases in his office. Major T. Thoreson and Dr. R. Kelley presented their views of methods of improving conditions. General Crozier outlined different phases of the vice question and read a letter from Colonel Roosevelt.

WRECKAGE OF U-BOAT VICTIMS SEEN OFF COAST

Baltimore, Aug. 27.—Wrecks of additional ships off the American coast, believed to be U-boat victims, were sighted between August 12 and 20, according to a report from Rear Admiral Schroeder received at the Hydrographic office in the custom house.

TRAWLER RUSH IS SUNK

Boston Vessel, Built This Year, Victim to U-Boat Off Nova Scotia

Word reached the Boston Fish Pier, South Boston, today, that the steam trawler Rush, owned by the Commonwealth Fisheries Company, has been sunk off Nova Scota. The dispatches conveying this information to her owners at the Pier contained no details.

The Rush was built this year at Essex. She was 109 feet long, with a beam of 25 feet. She registered 145 tons gross.

Captain Alvres Quebres commanded the Rush, which was manned by a crew of twenty-two Portuguese fishermen hailing from Gloucester. She is the first American steam trawler bothered in any way by the sea sea vipers, which have been reported as giving the other American steam fisherman a wide berth. The steam trawler Triumph, captured by the Germans, was a Canadian vessel.

To hitush sailed from Gloucester last Tuesday for the fishing grounds. Her loss is one of the heaviest yet sustained by the local fisheries, as she was worth considerably over $50,000, exclusive of her catch.

Believe the Trawler Triumph Has Been Sunk by U-Boat Raider

It is the opinion of the officers of the First Naval District that the German raider, formerly the Canadian trawler Triumph, has been sunk by the German submarine. Lieutenant William T. White, vice-commandant of the district, when asked today what had become of the raider, replied:

"No one really knows, but we can infer from evidence submitted to us from one who in charge of that matter in this district that before the submarine left those parts after doing what damage to shipping it could, it sank this German raider to prevent her from getting into our hands.

"It looks as if the submarine in going eastward had decided upon this. Otherwise the boat would have fallen a prey to us."

"War to the Death, Conquer or Fall," Says Kaiser

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 27.—"War to the death, conquer or fall together," the newspaper Epocha claims to have learned is the decision announced by the Kaiser following his recent conference with Emperor Charles, according to a Central News dispatch from Rome.

YANKEES TAKE 'SOME GROUND;' ROUT RAIDERS

Advance Their Line West of Fismes and Take Numerous Prisoners

Washington, Aug. 27.—Americans have gained "some ground west of Fismes and brought back prisoners," General Pershing reported to the War Department today.

The communique follows:

"During the course of a local engagement west of Fismes, the American troops gained some ground and brought back prisoners. In Alsace, a raid was repulsed with loss to the enemy."

Pershing's Men Hold All Ground Gained Despite Terrific Bombardment

With the Americans on the Aisne-Vesle Front, Aug. 27.—Under cover of darkness the Americans "dug in" on the railway embankment south of the Vesle between Courland and Magneux. They consolidated and hold their positions, despite heavy enemy fire.

German patrols reconnoitered the positions, intending to reoccupy them if they found them empty, but a hail of American machine gun bullets greeted them and drove them back to their line of defence, which is now north of the Vesle.

The American advance was on a two-mile front and carried the American positions forward two miles.

SHELL WHOLE LINE.

The entire Vesle line was bombarded heavily by the Germans with a mixture of smarting gas and high

BRITISH RECRUITING HERE FOR SIBERIA ARMY

New York, Aug. 27.—Major C. Broonan White, in charge of the British and Canadian recruiting mission, announced that volunteers will be accepted at once for the Siberian expeditionary forces and that recruiting for this service will continue for two weeks only. The brigade will include artillery, infantry and engineer units and will be sent direct to Siberia without delay. Recruits accepted will receive the same pay as the Canadian soldiers.

BRITISH IN DEATH GRIP WITH FOE AT BAPAUME

London, Aug. 27—(2:20 p. m.)—New Zealand troops are fighting in the outskirts of Bapaume, according to Field Marshal Haig's Report today. British troops also have reached the village of Longueval. (Longueval is slightly northeast of Combles and southwest of Bapaume.) Since the British started their drive last week a total of 21,000 German prisoners have been taken.

The text of the statement follows:

"Yesterday afternoon and evening severe fighting took place on the field of the old Somme battle, between Mericourt and Bapaume, and also to the north of that town. The enemy counter-attacked repeatedly and in strength, incurring great losses from the fire of our troops, but was unable to arrest our progress.

"English and Welsh troops pushed through Montauban and along the crest of the ridge, capturing Highwood and reaching Longueval. In this latter village we were heavily counter-attacked at 6:30 p. m. and were forced back towards Bazentin, Legrand and Highwood.

"On this line our troops broke up the enemy's attack and again advancing established themselves well to the east of Highwood. Early in the night the enemy counter-attacked a second time and was driven off by rifle fire before reaching our positions.

"North of Highwood the enemy twice counter-attacked in the neighborhood of Ligny, Thilloy, pressing back our advanced troops for

MANY GERMANS ARE EXECUTED FOR MUTINY

Every Tenth Man in Battalion Is Shot—20,000 Mutiny in Austrian Ranks

Amsterdam, Aug. 27.—Every tenth man in a German frontier battalion was shot by officers when the troops refused to obey orders to go to the front, according to advices received by the Telegraaf.

Mutiny, desertion and starvation among German and Austro-Hungarian soldiers were reported from various European sources today.

The most striking ... these reports said there were 20,000 armed mutineers behind the Austro-Hungarian lines in Italy. An officer who has just returned to Paris from Italy is quoted by the London Daily Express as authority for this.

According to information reaching the Italian lines three battalions of Austrian troops were sent to suppress and capture some mutinous soldiers. But the battalions, instead of attacking the mutineers, joined them in common revolt.

A mutiny at a Berlin railroad station of German soldiers en route to the front is reported in a Zurich dispatch. The soldiers, according to the dispatch, refused to proceed until machine guns were trained upon them.

Soldiers are deserting en masse from the Austrian army, according to advices received today at Stockholm, Sweden. Internal conditions in Austria were described as becoming more and more serious. They were likened to conditions in the Russian army just before the revolution which resulted in chaos in the Slav Empire.

3,000,000 DEADWEIGHT TONS IN SHIP LAUNCHING

Washington, Aug. 27.—Total launchings to date have passed the 3,000,000 deadweight ton mark, it was unofficially learned at the shipping board today. Up to August 24, the shipping board officials stated launchings had reached a total of 2,923,972 deadweight tons, and since, it was said, the launchings have gone far above this.

SENATE SWAMPS WORK OF FIGHT AMENDMENT

Washington, Aug. 27.—The Senate went on record overwhelmingly in favor of modification of the Redd-Thomas anti-strike amendment to the administration man-power bill this afternoon when it adopted Senator Cummins amendment to that provision.

KAISER YIELDS TO DEMANDS OF SPAIN

London, Aug. 27.—Germany has accepted all of Spain's conditions stipulated in the recent note on submarine sinkings sent to the imperial government, according to an announcement made by Premier Dato at Santiander, the Times learns.

The Kaiser's backdown is complete, the Premier revealed, the German government even agreeing to the replacement of Spanish vessels sunk by U-boats in the future by German tonnage interned in Spain's ports.

The dispatch to the Times adds that the Iberian Government will requisition all Spanish tonnage and apposition it to trade with the various nations in return for specified needed commodities.

BIG BATTLE RAGES ON OLD SOMME FIELD

BRITISH AND GERMANS IN DEATH GRIP NEAR BAPAUME

a distance of 400 or 500 yards, where his infantry was stopped and driven back.

"At Bapaume New Zealand troops, after fierce fighting, have established themselves in the northern outskirts of the town. Farther north English troops have made progress toward Beugnatre and have had hard fighting about Croisilles.

"On the right of the battle front Australian troops have continued their advance astride the Somme and have made substantial pogress toward Dompierre and east of Suzanne. On the left of the battle front, Canadian troops yesterday afternoon captured the ridge east of Wancourt and established themselves east of Guemappe.

"North of the Scarpe, Scottish troops renewed their attack last night and have made substantial progress toward Plouvain.

"The prisoners taken by our troops since the morning of the 21st instant exceed 21,000."

Mangin's French Army Advances Half a Mile

Paris, Aug. 27 (Noon).—General Mangin's Tenth French army has renewed its drive against the German line north of Soissons. Last night French troops advanced their line for a distance of 1,200 metres (about half a mile) in the vicinity of Bagneux, which lies directly north of Soissons.

Around Roye, where they made progress yesterday, French troops last night pushed farther ahead and brought up their total of prisoners in that operation up to 1,200.

German counter-attacks west of Chavigny (between Soissons and Bagneux) were beaten off, the French taking prisoners.

The text of the official statement follows:

"South of the Avre, French troops this morning further progressed in the region of St. Mard, after having repulsed several counter-attacks of the enemy. We took over 1,200 prisoners in the fight. Among these were thirty-six officers, including two battalion commanders.

"Between the Oise and the Aisne, German counter-attacks west of Chavigny failed, leaving thirty prisoners in our hands.

"In the region east of Bagneux we advanced our line 1200 metres.

"There was sharp artillery activity between the Ailette and the Aisne."

Prussian Guards Fight Desperately to Protect Flank North of Soissons

With the American Army on the Aisne-Vesle front, Aug. 27.—The famous Prussian Guard is being used by General von Boehm in desperate counter-attacks against the forces of General Mangin at the entrance of the Couey forest, northeast of Soissons. This fac has become known through the capture of prisoners in the repulse of the german onslaughts.

French Airmen Cross Ailettte, Threaten Rear of German Somme Line

Paris, Aug. 27.—French aeroplanes have crossed the Ailette near the Oise, opening the way for an attack on the rear of the enemy's Somme line, the International News Service learned today.

Americans Gain Ground and Take Prisoners in Action Near Fismes

Washington, Aug. 27.—The War Department announces the following communique from General Pershing:

Headquarters American Expeditionary Forces, Aug. 26: "Section A. It a local action west of Fismes, our troops gained ground and captured prisoners. In Alsace a hostile raid was repulsed with losses."

Berlin War Report Claims Germans Are Still Holding Bapaume

Berlin via London, Aug. 27.—The official war report:

"West of Gouilles the enemy attack was held down.

"On both sides of Bapaume enemy attacks penetrated our line running southwest of Morv to the west of Bapaume and to Martin-Puich. The attacks were held down in the outskirts of Mory and Favreuil and west of Bapaume.

"Southwest of Bapaume Prussians and marines threw the enemy back and recaptured Thilloy and Martin-Puich.

"In the afternoon the enemy reached the line Bazentin-le-Petit, Camoy, Suzanne. The enemy captured Cappy. Prussian guards captured the height to the southeast.

"Between Hem and Longueval counter-attacks were temporarily lost, then recaptured by us."

Norwegians Now Demand German Ships as Pay for Vessels Submarined

Copenhagen, Aug. 27.—Germany now offers to recompense neutral nations for all ships sunk outside of the U-boat zone proclaimed by the German government, according to advices received here today. The Norwegian papers, however, are demanding German ships in lieu of the Norwegian ships sunk by U-boats, as well as recompense for the loss of lives of Norwegian subjects.

NEW ARMY TO BE IN TRENCHES BEFORE 1919

Speed Will Be the Watchword for Uncle Sam, Says Colonel Stevens

The first army of men under the 18 and 45 draft will be fighting in the war before the year is over, according to opinion expressed by Adjutant-General Jesse F. Stevens today.

Colonel Stevens declared his positive belief that the men who make up the new Army of Democracy will be in training in the military camps within two months.

"Greater speed will be shown in army training than ever before," said Colonel Stevens.

"Experience always teaches. The monumental task we faced at Pevens and the training camps of the country was faced successfully.

"I believed that the man power coming to the training camps will be more quickly whipped into shape than ever before, and that many men will see service before the year is ended."

Eight hundred sacks of mail for the new draft have already been received at the headquarters of Major Roger Wolcott, United States officer in charge of the draft in Massachusetts.

It is estimated that 200,00 Bay State men will register under the new draft. The original draft called 376,000 men to the registration boards.

The machinery of registration is being whipped into final shape to accomplish the new registration with speed and efficiency.

VACATION ELOPERS FORGIVEN BY PARENTS

The vacatin elopement and marriage at Allen Bay, N. H., of seventeen-year-old Ruth Porter and nineteen-year-old Raymond C. Eaton of Canaan became known in their home town today.

The marriage was an elopement so far as the parents of the youthful bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Eaton of No. 193 Elliott street, East Danvers was concerned. For months they knew was when their son telegraphed them.

A parental blessing and invitation to the honeymoon pair to make their home for the present with the Raymonds was quickly sent back to them.

CIGARETTES COMES HIGH TO A TOP FLOOR LODGER

James Hanley, lodger on the top floor of the lodging house conducted by Mrs. Ella Lawley, at No. 210 Broadway, Chelsea, forgot to extinguish a lighted cigarette while in bed early today, with the result that the bed caught fire while he slept. Patrolmen Robert McCarthy and William O'Connor, who discovered the fire, rushed into the room and awakened Hanley and then extinguished the blaze. The damage amounted to about $110.

WOOL COMPANY HEAD GOES WITH RED CROSS

Kenneth Hutchins of Medford, president and treasurer of the Hutchins Wool Company of Boston, will go to New York today to prepare for his new executive position with the Red Cross before he leaves for ... Mr. Hutchins, who was chairman of the Medford Fuel Committee and a leader in the last Red Cross campaign, received his appointment last week. He is master of Mount Herman Lodge of Masons.

Anyone having a modern iron frame sextant will be given a reasonable price, dependent on its condition, if taken to the branch Hydrographic office, fourth floor of the Custom House, Boston.

Man-Power of U. S. Beats Germany's by 12,000,000

Washington, Aug. 27.—Estimates available at the War Department show a great contrast in the man-power of the United States and Germany and the demands that war has made upon the fighting forces of the two countries. These contrast figure appear in the subjoined, and it must be remembered the figures are based upon more than four years of war for Germany and almost one and a half years for the United States.

WAR A CRUSADE, ASSERTS LORD HUGH CECIL

Must Be Fought Until It Ends in Absolute Submission of Germany

London, Aug. 27.—"The war must be fought until it ends in the submission of Germany, and by submission I do not in the least mean destruction," declared Lord Hugh Cecil, member of Parliament for Oxford University, in a letter containing a statement of his conception of the ideal war aims. Lord Cecil continued:

"We do not seek to destroy Germany, but we seek to force the Germans to recognise that they have been defeated and to submit to the authority of a world stronger than they. Negotiations at the present time might lead to an agreement as between equals, but not to the submission of a defeated nation to a superior power. And until that submission is made it is liable to help the German government, it will turn the false 'Peace-offensive.'

"It is not merely a matter of national defense being involved. From the time of the burning of Louvain it began to be seen that it is not, merely for the redemption of Belgium, not to bring a conflict of national interests to the decision of the ordeal of battle, but to preserve the well being of the civilized world from a monstrous evil, that we are fight.

"That the citizens of a nation can know no higher object than to advance the interests of that nation and for that object may commit cruelty and any perfidy, is a doctrine which civilization must either destroy or itself perish. The war is now a crusade. We fight to overthrow a principle, to stamp out a moral disease, to extirpate an abomination."

PERSHING REPORTS NEW AMERICAN GAINS

explosives. There were patrol brushes.

Only when machine gun nests dominate the ground across which the troops must advance does the infantry hold off for the tanks. Then the steel monsters work around the flanks of the machine gun nests, taking them under enfilading fire, or even from the rear, while often also deliberately running them down and smashing the emplacements.

There great forests—the upper and lower Coucy forests and the forests of St. Gobain—lie directly in Mangin's path, barring the road to Laon.

RAIN METAL ON WOODS.

But Allied airplanes are showering steady streams of explosives upon these woods, while the French long range guns are shelling incessantly, for it is in these forests that German reinforcements are billeted and shattered divisions are being re-organized.

The Germans flooded the La Fere region, blowing up the Oise dams in 1917 during their great retreat, when the three forests were organized as stations in the Hindenburg line, but they were unable to flood the Oise gateway toward Laon now, owing to the fact that there is but little water in the river bed at this season.

The forests do not bar the French advance now as they did in 1917, since the Allies have created a heavy gas by which the french can render the woods untenable.

MURRAY SENTENCES MAN UNDER "LOAFING" LAW

That Judge Murray of the Municipal Court meant it when he declared he would sentence anyone arrested as being unemployed, without a satisfactory excuse, was shown today when he sentenced Salvadore Cereal of the North End to three months in the House of Correction for violation of the Anti-Loafing law. Cereal appealed and was held in $500 for the Superior Court.

CHARGE PASTOR IN MAINE TRAGEDY PROMISED TO WED GEROW GIRL

PROSECUTOR SAYS ARREST WAS ALL THAT PREVENTED MARRIAGE IN PORTLAND

By PAUL HARRIS DRAKE.

Wells, Depot, Me., Aug. 27.—Rev. Henry H. Hall, the Baptist preacher in the Alfred Jail awaiting a hearing Thursday, charged with his wife's death, planned to marry Grace Gerow, and was arrested on the eve of his departure to carry out his intention, according to a statement made by County Attorney Franklin R. Chesley of Saco today.

According to Attorney Chesley, Hall was about to leave Wells to keep an appointment to marry Miss Grace Gerow of Portland when he was arrested. Hall had a ticket to Portland and two pounds of candy in his bag when taken into custody by Deputy Sheriffs B. A. Parker of North Berwick and E. L. Jones of Kennebunk on August 19.

In discussing the case today Attorney Chesley said:

"We obtained evidence of Hall's intention to marry Grace Gerow in Portland and then leave on an extended wedding tour. We were considering the advisability of placing him under arrest when this information was brought to my attention.

TOOK IMMEDIATE ACTION.

"Since let him go ahead and get married and perhaps leave the State, or should we arrest him before he accomplished his purpose? Wisdom demanded that we arrest Hall while we knew where to find him. Inasmuch as he might be an expensive man to catch if he once got a long start on us.

"We decided to arrest him at once. 'It might have been a little stronger evidence had we permitted him to get married, as he undoubtedly intended, but the consequence of such an action on his part made it advisable to take the action which we did. A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, you know, and we didn't care like making chances."

In answer to the report that it was the intention of the county attorney to order the arrest of Grace Gerow to hasten the securing of evidence from her concerning her relations with Hall, Mr. Chesley said:

"I have at no time contemplated Miss Gerow's arrest. Why should we arrest a perfectly innocent girl? Although Grace Gerow persistently evades answering my questions concerning Hall, it is not my intention to molest her in any way. She has told me enough to confirm my suspicions that they planned to be married in Portland.

"I call Grace Gerow a 'prayer artist,' because she always goes into a trance when I speak to her of Hall. Whatever her use of petition to the Almighty, Miss Gerow certainly goes to unimpeachable authority for guidance in her utterances. If the Almighty commands her not to answer my questions concerning her relations with Hall, I have no means of compelling her to talk."

VISIT DEATH SCENE.

Today County Attorney Chesley, accompanied by Medical Examiners Charles T. Traynor of Biddeford, who performed the autopsy on the body of the murdered dead wife, Mrs. Minnie O. Stevens Hall, at Harrington, Me., visited the scene of the minister's wife's death at Little River Bridge. They were accompanied in their inspection of the scene of the alleged crime by High Sheriff Haven A. Roberts of Sanford.

Sheriff Roberts brought with him a large drawing of the railroad bridge with the shallow brook beneath it which had been made at the request of Attorney Chesley by civil engineer Frank W. Clark of Sanford. Measurements and diagram of the place where Mrs. Hall met her death were made by Clark on August 22 and the large mounted drawing of the locality has been prepared since that time.

The purpose of the visit was to fix definitely in the mind of the three officials the exact location of the spot in which the body of Mrs. Hall was first seen by Ernest Matthews, a passing railroad section foreman. The drawing brought by Sheriff Roberts was referred to frequently during the examination of the ground in the vicinity of the spot.

The same drawing will be used at the hearing given Hall, and will be introduced for the enlightenment of Judge Harold H. Bonney.

After making a careful survey of the region in the vicinity of the fatal bridge, Attorney Chesley, Sheriff Roberts and Deputy Sheriffs Charles T. Ricker of Waterboro and B. A. Parker of North Berwick secured an automobile and sought further interviews with witnesses who will be summoned by the State in the endeavor to convict Hall of the alleged crime of wife-murder. Medical Examiner Traynor returned to Biddeford in his own automobile.

HEARING ON THURSDAY.

It was stated on Saturday by Sheriff Roberts at Wells Depot that there might be no hearing on Thursday after all, owing to a belief that sufficient evidence to warrant holding Hall without bail may not have been obtained at that time.

This statement was rescinded by Sheriff Roberts today. He now declares that the hearing will certainly take place as scheduled.

It might also well last Attorney Chesley might be ready for the hearing on account of lack of sufficient time to prepare his case," explained Mr. Chesley. "But there is no doubt that the hearing will be carried out as planned. I understand they got the information they wanted at the autopsy, and are ready to be in court at any time the sooner the better, so far as the State is concerned, I believe."

Aside from being "satisfied" with the result of the autopsy performed on the body of Mrs. Hall, Attorney Chesley would not comment further on this phase of the case. Medical Examiner Traynor refused to discuss the result of his post mortem examination.

"I have made my report to Mr. Chesley," he said.

Belief that Hall attempted to hide the unconscious body of his injured wife when he heard Section Foreman Matthews approaching on his motor truck car on the night of the alleged crime was also expressed today by Sheriff Roberts.

QUESTIONS HALL'S ACTIONS.

"Why did Hall lay his wife's unconscious form among the rocks undergrowth beside the granite abutment of the railroad bridge instead of upon the soft green grass an easy stumble would do?

"But no, he placed his wife's body in a secluded position where it could not be easily seen from the track. I wonder if he was attempting to conceal it when the sound of Matthews' approaching car fell upon his thoughts in another direction. You know the first impulse of anyone who commits a crime is to hide the evidence.

"Why did this man send two men and a fourteen-year-old girl who happened along all for a doctor? Certainly, would have welcomed assistance from at least one of the three in getting Mrs. Hall into a comfortable position while the other two brought a physician. The Matthews girl, for one, might have been permitted to remain and keep Hall company, since it was a woman who was hurt.

"Most men would welcome the presence of a third party under such circumstances. But Hall hurried them all to 'bring a doctor,' and so was permitted to be alone with his dying wife for a while longer—or until the doctor arrived on Mat thews' motor track car."

The secret of Mrs. Hall's fatal injuries has become a veritable mecca for autoists inspired with a morbid curiosity, and more than one passer that a car does not stop at Wells Depot, Me., before reaching the Little River bridge, from which the unhappy wife plunged to her death.

Grace Gerow 'Prayer Artist,' Declares Prosecutor

"I call Grace Gerow a 'prayer artist,' because she always goes into a trance when I speak to her of Hall. Whatever her use of petition to the Almighty, Miss Gerow certainly goes to unimpeachable authority for guidance in her utterances. If the Almighty commands her not to answer my questions concerning her relations with Hall, I have no means of compelling her to talk."—County Attorney Chesley's characterization of Rev. Henry H. Hall's fiancee, Grace Gerow.

BIG ESCORT SENDS OFF LYNN MEN TO SOUTH

Lynn, Aug. 27. — Escorted to the Boston & Maine station by two companies of the State Guard, a detail of fifty Grand Army men, twenty-five Spanish War Veterans, 100 Boy Scouts, fifty Liberty Girls in uniform, twenty-five Daughters of the Nation, brothers and sisters, and a delegation of Lynnites, fifty-six in the selective draft left at 8:30 o'clock for Camp Jackson, South Carolina, at City Hall there was a band concert on the lawn, at which City Councillor Fred Hamelin, in the absence of the Mayor, addressed the men.

GERMAN CITIES ARE BOMBED BY BRITISH

London, Aug. 27.—British airplanes raided the railway station at Frankfort-on-theMain and the chemical works at Mannheim, the War Office announced today. Two tons of bombs were dropped on the Mannheim works, resulting in fires and explosions. Good results also were obtained at Frankfort. The raiders suffered no losses.

PRESIDENT WHISTLES AFTER VISITING BAKER

Washington, Aug. 27.—President Wilson appeared in fine spirits after a visit to the State, War and Navy building. He conferred with Secretary Baker for more, than half an hour. The President was whistling on his return to the White House.

BRITISH SHOOT DOWN 31 GERMAN PLANES

London, Aug. 27.—Thirty-eight German machines were brought down by the British. Only five British airplanes were lost. Thirty-two tons of bombs were dropped on various German targets, including the Bruges docks.

THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER

O, say can you see by the dawn's early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight's last gleaming,
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight,
O'er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming?
And the rocket's red glare, the bombs bursting in air
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
O, say does that Star Spangled Banner yet wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

On the shore dimly seen through the mists of the deep,
Where the foe's haughty host in dread silence reposes,
What is that which the breeze o'er the towering steep
As it fitfully blows, half conceals, half discloses?
Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,
In full glory reflected now shines in the stream;
'Tis the Star Spangled Banner. O, long may it wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave!

And where is that band who so vauntingly swore,
That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion
A home and a country should leave us no more?
Their blood has washed out their foul footsteps' pollution;
No refuge could save the hireling and slave
From the terror of flight and the gloom of the grave;
And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph doth wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

O, thus be it ever when freemen shall stand
Between their loved homes and wild war's desolation;
Blest with victory and peace may the heaven-rescued land
Praise the power that hath made and preserved us a Nation!
Then conquer we must when our cause it is just,
And this be our motto: "In God is our trust!"
And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

IN TRIUMPH SHALL WAVE

Maybe you know the national anthem letter perfect, but there are many—very, very many—who do not, surprising as it may seem. Anyway, if you are not positive of every line of our soul-stirring song of the people, in these days of battle for freedom, here it is—"The Star-Spangled Banner." Cut out the words as printed and sing it tonight at 9 o'clock in the greatest national chorus ever sung.

Tune up, everybody! Get ready for the nation-wide "Liberty Sing" at 9 o'clock tonight.

"The Star Spangled Banner."

That's the song, of course, the national anthem.

It will be sung all over the country, from coast to coast, from border to border. Boston, the Bay State and New England will join in. The Bay State will send forth the proud air from the Berkshire Hills to fair Cape Cod.

Governor McCall asks all men, women and children of this grand old Commonwealth to lift his or her voice in patriotic pride.

One of the biggest local "sings" will be heard on Boston Common. The Women's Division of the Massachusetts Public Safety Committee has arranged to have "The Star Spangled Banner" incorporated in the moving picture program at the Conservation Cottages.

An open-air rally, with singing of the national anthem, will be held by the War Service Unit at Randolph street playground.

So, everybody sing for the allies and victory at 9 o'clock tonight.

Fighting Chicago Chaplain Made a Chevalier

By NEWTON C. PARKE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army in France, Aug. 27.—The first American chaplain to be made a chevalier of the legion of honor is Chaplain Harry A. Darche of Chicago, who is a "fighting son of a gun," in the language of the private who fought beside him.

Chaplain Darche exhibited exceptional bravery in the bitter fighting north of the Marne and thereby won the highly prized French decoration. The official citation states that he "showed striking devotion to duty in encagement east of (deleted) on July 15, in ministering to wounded men under terrific and continuous machine gun and artillery fire.

"He went out many times after men who had been shot in advanced positions, showing an utter disregard for his own life. His spirit and self-sacrifice inspired the entire line and thrilled the men with a determination to advance at all costs. His cheerful demeanor in the face of heavy losses buoyed up the men and contributed materially toward the ultimate success of the day."

Chaplain Darche is at the present time recuperating in a hospital from a fever contracted while performing his duties.

IRENE FRANKLIN WILL TOUR LIBERTY CIRCUIT

Washington, Aug. 27.—Irene Franklin, vaudeville star has "enlisted." She will receive $60 a month "and found" to play the Liberty Circuit in France, it was learned here today.

'BELLE OF THIRD AVENUE' HUNTS THORNE HEIR

New York, Aug. 27.—Mary Casey Thorne, former belle of Third avenue, is in trouble again. This time her small son, aged three, has disappeared, and the young wife charges that her husband, Joel Wolfe Thorne, wealthy banker, has abducted the child. Thorne left his wife last October.

She appeared before the police and filed a complaint, after a fruitless search for the little boy at Long Beach, where he had been taken by a maid. The maid telephoned to Mrs. Thorne that they had met the father and he had taken them for a ride in his car. Mrs. Thorne said he had dismissed the maid and gone away with the child.

The servant, after telephoning Mrs. Thorne, did not go home again. In her room later were found two full boxes of cartridges, but no firearms.

This maid had previously been discharged for taking the child to the home of his grand parents, but had been reinstated.

The Thornes were married November 1, 1911, to the great displeasure of the bridegroom's parents, the late Samuel E. Thorne and Mrs Thorne of 914 Fifth avenue.

"Beautiful Mary Casey of Third avenue," as she was known before her marriage, was transplanted from the looming shadow of the elevated structure to an exclusive residential district.

The Thorne troubles came into prominence when the young wife, taken to the psychopathic ward of the Bellevue Hospital for observation, claimed that she was being held by force, confined in a straitjacket, and that her husband was responsible.

A search for the child is now under way by the police.

BOSTON WOMEN UNDER ARREST AS DISLOYAL

Taken From Train at Portsmouth, Quickly Prove Patriotism; Complaint by Teacher

Two Boston women, one a member of the Massachusetts Women's Liberty Loan Committee, the other the wife of a Bay State captain now fighting on the French front, were taken from a Boston & Maine train and arrested at Portsmouth, N. H., on charges of unpatriotic talk preferred by Miss Dora Leadbetter, a Cambridge school teacher, as related in despatches today from the New Hampshire seaport.

The two Boston women soon convinced Police Chief Hurley of their sound patriotism and were released.

Two other women were also arrested in the same case at Rochester, N. H., having been mistaken for the women Miss Leadbetter suspected. They were likewise released.

The Boston women were said in the Portsmouth account to be on their way to the Summer home of Mrs. Barrett Wendell of Boston on Pleasant street in Portsmouth.

TWO OTHERS SUSPECTS TAKEN.

Miss Leadbetter was on her way home on an afternoon train from Kansas, White Mountains, to Boston yesterday. The two Boston women were in the seat back of her. Also on the train happened to be Sheriff Chandler of Strafford County.

Miss Leadbetter complained to the sheriff that the two women back of her were talking in an unpatriotic manner in regard to President Wilson, the Liberty Loan and war matters and that they were making joking remarks about the Loan.

The Cambridge teacher, as the story is told, insisted that the women be taken from the train at Rochester and questioned.

The sheriff telegraphed to City Marshal Allen of Rochester. As a result two women from the train at Rochester stepped off. They were Catherine Malone and Josephine Bonds of New York city, who had been at Kennebunkport.

At Rochester city building their stories were scratched by the city marshal and their persons by Miss Mildred Shaw, assistant city clerk. Nothing suspicious was found on them. They were released without delay.

RELEASED BY POLICE.

Meanwhile the train had rolled along. Sheriff Chandler, as the Portsmouth police tell the story, discovered that the two women she suspected were still aboard.

Who made the error at Rochester is not stated, but the wrong women had been taken there.

Miss Leadbetter, following up her points, had Sheriff Chandler send word to Portsmouth, where the two women sitting behind Miss Leadbetter were to leave the train.

At Portsmouth these two women were questioned by Patrolman Doherty. He declined to make arrests unless Miss Leadbetter would accompany them as witnesses, which she finally did.

At Portsmouth police station the women identified themselves to Chief Hurley's complete satisfaction. They denied having made any unpatriotic remarks. They said that they were talking over some of their experiences in booming the Liberty Bond sale and were recalling some amusing experiences they had.

When they were released Miss Leadbetter left for the Portsmouth station and the next train for Boston.

U. S. OFFICIALS QUERY MOTHER OF PACIFIST

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Mrs. Alice Dow Allison, mother of Brent Dow Allison, conscientious objector, and a conscientious objector, now serving a fifteen-year sentence in Federal prison, was questioned by Federal officers concerning her war attitude at a recent meeting of the Women's Peace Party held in her home.

FRISCO SLACKERS ARE GETTING TOUCH OF LAW

SanFrancisco, Aug. 27.—The neutrality and morals squads of the San Francisco police department are combing the streets for men and others who come under the "work or fight" order. Ninety-nine draft registrants were rounded up in one day, and officials estimate that 5000 men a month in San Francisco alone will be forced to go to work, or fight for the nation.

CAPTIVES IN GERMANY ASK TENNIS OUTFITS

New York, Aug. 27. — American prisoners in Germany want tennis racquets, balls and shoes. This was disclosed in a letter made public by the Y. M. C. A. It had been written from a prison camp in Alsatia-Lorraine by Conrad Hoffman, American Y. M. C. A. secretary, for prisoners of war in Germany.

MEMORIAL FOR YANKEE TURNS TO CELEBRATION

Charles City, Ia., Aug. 27.—Rockford, a small town near, here, had prepared an elaborate program for the memorial services in honor of Ivan Walker, a Rockford boy, reported dead. At the last moment word was received by his parents that he was alive and well. The program was changed to a grand patriotic demonstration and flag raising at the little village church.

DETROIT STREET CAR FARES TO BE INCREASED

Washington, Aug. 27.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today granted the Detroit Electric Railways Company permission to increase its fares.

LIEUTENANT J. A. LEWIS of West Medford, who has returned to U. S. Naval Reserve to help the drive for world freedom.

Lieutenant J. A. Lewis of West Medford, who has just returned to service in the United States Naval Reserve after several years of civil life, will go to New York tomorrow to be assigned to a ship. He enrolled in the New York last Thursday and is here on a four days' furlough to take leave of his family. While in New York he will be the guest of his uncle, Rear Admiral George E. Bird, industrial manager of the New York Navy Yard.

Lieutenant Lewis has seen a good deal of sea service as an officer in the United States Naval Auxiliary and in the merchant marine. He has been on the Brutus, Vulcan, Vestal and other government colliers, and spent several months in Mediterranean waters. He was for a year lieutenant on the Dollar coast guard service, being a member of the staff of the Polillo, the official yacht of the governor-general when that office was held by W. Cameron Forbes of Boston.

Before his marriage two years ago last Christmas, Mr. Lewis gave up his sea to enter business, and at the time of his return to the service was living in Brainerd, Minnesota. From the time the United States entered war he received various appeals from the Shipping Board and the Naval Auxiliary to return to the service in view of the need of trained men; and although over the draft age he felt it a duty to accept.

His wife was Miss Mildred Thomas of Minneapolis. They have a baby daughter, Katherine Jean, aged nine months.

FIREMEN WON'T STRIKE; RAISE IS LIKELY

Fire Commissioner Grady today informed Acting Mayor Collins that so far as he knew Boston firemen would not strike and that such a report was absolutely without substantial foundation. He denied emphatically that he had even heard any such talk in the department.

On the other hand, investigation at the State House today showed that without a question all probationers (4300 men) and the $1,000 men will have their pay increased shortly by the Mayor to $1,100.

That increase men will be given higher pay is assured, according to those close in touch with the situation. If the bill passed by the Commissioner Grady has submitted to Mayor Peters a plan whereby money from other appropriations may be transferred to his department, which would give the men in the two lower classes $1,100.

Mayor Peters has gone on record as saying that he believes these men should have more pay, but up to the time of the commissioner's proposal he had not seen the money.

If Commissioner Grady's plan is accepted by the Mayor firemen joining the service will receive $1,100 for the first two years and then be subject to the sliding scale. At present a man entering the service gets but $900 the first year and $1,000 the second.

This plan will affect 259 men and will cost the city $22,099 for the balance of this year.

If the scale goes through, it means a victory of course for the firemen, and there are those about City Hall who feel that once the pay of these two classes is increased there will be demand all along the line.

Both Secretary Parke and Acting Mayor Collins denied the story that the rumor in the morning papers called Commissioner Grady. They agreed that the Commissioner was not spending his vacation at North Haven, Me.

Delegates to Springfield Convention Attend Mass—Women in Session

Springfield, Aug. 27.—With delegates present from every part of the State, and ex-Governor David I. Walsh as a speaker, the biennial State convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians opened today for a two days session with the celebration of mass at St. Michael's Cathedral. Bishop Thomas D. Beaven presided.

Rev. Edward J. Fitzgerald of Clinton was celebrated, assisted by the chaplains of the county organizations and divisions. Fr. Duffy preached the convention sermon.

State President Richard Dwyer, of South Boston presided at today's session. Mayor Stacey welcomed the delegates. Patrick F. Cannon, of Clinton, national vice president, represented the national board.

The Ladies' Auxiliary also began their convention. The members attended the mass.

The women's convention is presided over by Miss Mary A. Mahoney of Norwood, State president. Miss Susan McNamee of Medford, national secretary, represents the national body.

The delegates are not expected to finish business before late tonight, at which time the election of officers takes place.

S. P. BUSH HEADS NEW FACILITIES DIVISION

Washington, Aug. 27.—A facilities division, which will co-operate with the army, the navy and the Emergency Fleet Corporation in the work of helping to win the war through industrial aid and enterprise, has been created by the War Industries Board, it was announced today. Samuel P. Bush, who will be head, with D. R. McLennon of Chicago assistant. The new division will aid necessary war industries in the finding of capital, labor, aid in housing, in the connection of necessary additions to plants, housing of labor and giving assistance to all the war making branches of the United States government.

GERMAN YOUTH SPARED BY NORTH ADAMS SOLDIERS

North Adams, Aug. 27.—Corporal Jeddie Brooks and Private Perrault of North Adams, the former wounded in the head and foot and the latter in the arm, spared the life of a German soldier in the front line trench. When after they had waited for nightfall, six hours in an oat field, under enemy fire.

They spared the German because they believed it would break his mother's heart if they killed her seventeen-year-old son. Both of the Americans are members of Company M, 104th Infantry.

ONE DEAD AS RIVER STEAMBOAT CAPSIZES

Damariscotta, Me., Aug. 27.—Twenty-one persons had a remarkable escape from death, while one man lost his life when the river steamer Tourist capsized as she was about to make a landing at the wharf here.

Fireman Scott was drowned when the steamer capsized after striking a submerged object. Mrs. W. Wesbetts of West Palm Beach, Fla., sustained injuries to a thumb which necessitated its amputation.

DEAD BRITISH AVIATOR WAS EXETER ATHLETE

North Adams, Aug. 27.—Lieutenant Richard Lucas Atkinson, former Exeter Prep School athlete, son of R. A. J. Hewat, prominent New Englander, was killed in aerial combat as a member of the Royal Flying Corps, August 14, previously reported missing in action, played left end for Exeter three years and was a brother to brothers in British or Canadian service.

DORCHESTER DRAFTEES GO TO CAMP TOMORROW

Tomorrow morning one hundred and thirty-eight Dorchester men will leave the different selective boards of the Dorchester District for Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C., where they will go in training.

Large delegations will see the boys off at all the draft boards and many tributes will be given the lads on parting, in the shape of presents that will come in handy in their military life.

ARREST TWO AS ENEMY ALIENS IN CLINTON

Clinton, Aug. 27.—Two Germans, admittedly enemy aliens, giving their names as Herman Krueger and Albert Hoffman, cabinet makers here in Lawrence, were arrested here by Chief of Police F. W. Dodge and held for United States officials. They had purchased passenger tickets of the Boston & Maine here and were being taken into custody and are to be turned over to U. S. Marshal Mitchell.

DIVISION 15 SENDS 29 DRAFTEES SOUTH

Maynard, Aug. 27.—The 29th board for State Division 15, which is made up of Acton, Ashby, Ayer, Carlisle, Littleton, Boxboro, Groton, Harvard, Lincoln, Lunenburg, Maynard, Pepperell, Shirley, Stow, Townsend and Westford entrained tomorrow for Camp Devens, Ayer, for Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C., today. Two other groups will be sent away by the board this week.

AUTO GANG IS SMOKED OUT IN NEW "DEN"

Providence, Aug. 27. — Although shifting its headquarters to Pawtucket as a blind, a reorganized gang of alleged auto thieves has been tracked down by the local police. Five men are under arrest. Following the breaking up of other alleged auto thieves gangs, it is claimed that a couple of members of one of the old coteries formed a new organization, which, for the purpose of misleading the police, made Pawtucket its head quarters, and Boston a trading place.

Thomas F. Mullin, William McDonald, John L. Curran, Arthur McPherson and Frank Denodana have been taken into custody, the first four charged with stealing cars and the last with receiving stolen property. Mullin and McPherson, indicted by a local Grand Jury for similar offenses, are now awaiting sentence.

Local officers are in Boston today searching for cars supposed to have been stolen. Two such cars were recovered here yesterday. The operations are alleged to have been going on for some time, the men using aliases to hide their identity from the police to whom they were known by their real names.

T. R. RAPS THOMPSON IN ILLINOIS PRIMARIES

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 27.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has thrown himself into the Illinois primary Senatorial fight by declaring that the election of Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, Republican aspirant, would be nothing less than a "calamity." The colonel, however, evaded responsibility of sponsoring either George Edmund Foss or Medill McCormick, who are opposing Thompson. He contented himself with the attack on Thompson and assertion that Illinois Republicans should support the one true blue candidate, as a result Foss and McCormick are both claiming the colonel's favor.

Austrians Recapture Berat

Vienna, via London, Aug. 27.—Recapture by the Austrians of the important town of Berat, in Albania, is announced by the war office.

was supplied with ammunition and side arms and again took up battle.

Cohen fought for a day and a half with the marines and finally he and two marines got so far ahead that they were cut off by a German barrage and captured. They were taken to the fortress at Metz and severely questioned as to the strength of the Americans.

"We laughed at them," said Cohen. Then they threw us into prison. The grub was fierce—soup made out of rotten vegetables; coffee made out of beans knows what.

A DARING ESCAPE.

"As luck would have it, our guards were friendly. They said that they were tired to death of the war.

"One night one of those fellows deliberately walked away, leaving my cell door unlocked. It was a bind but the chances of getting out of the dungeon and surroundings looked pretty slim. Well, I floored the sentry at the end of the corridor, took his clothes and grabbed his gun.

"The big yard was deserted. I bayoneted another sentry here, had to do it. In the morning I moved about unquestioned. I was in the German uniform. Then I made a train, posing as a broke. I alighted near the Oise River and crawled almost all the way to the American lines on my belly. It was a wreck, but I haven't seemed to get over it.

"But I'm not through. No street I'll be back at 'em as soon as I can get there."

ROXBURY DRAFT BOARD ASKS FOR ASSISTANTS

The draft board for Division 12, with headquarters in the Municipal Building, Dudley and Vine streets, has appealed for 100 volunteer registrars. Thirty business men and others have already offered their services.

The board has notified each one of these citizens that he is appointed a committee of one to secure at least two more volunteers, so that the board will have 100 men ready for the task of registering nearly 4,000 men.

The new volunteers will be asked to appear at the board headquarters at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening, at which time all other volunteers

BULLET "KISSES OFF" HORSE'S HEAD TO HIS

Montecello, Me., Aug. 27.—Jere Bean is in Houlton Hospital, wounded by a bullet which "kissed off" his old horse's head. Bean staged an exposition of the steed, with a boy to fire the revolver. Bean held the horse's head. The bullet hit the horse's head, glanced off and struck Bean's head. He will probably recover.

WATERTOWN DRAFTEES ENTRAIN FOR CAMP

Lexington, Aug. 27.—Twenty-six first-class draftees, most of them of the 1918 registration list, were entrained today for Camp Jackson, Columbia, South Carolina, by the draft board for State Division 21, which is made up of Lexington, Belmont and Watertown. A larger number of those who went were Watertown men. Two other groups will also be entrained this week.

COOKS KISS KITCHEN GOOD-BYE—EFFECT OF WAR

Macon, Ga., Aug. 27.—Cooks and servants are becoming almost obsolete in Macon as a result of the war. Many housewives are doing their own cooking for the first time. Many have rigged up clotheslines and installed tubs for the family washing. Negro women whose husbands are in the army receive monthly allotments from the government. With the first installment of government money the cook generally "kisses the kitchen good-bye."

WOMEN AND BOYS IN BATTLE FOR GERMANY

New York, Aug. 27.—That Germany is using women as machine gunners is told as first-hand knowledge by Sergeant Robert L. Flack of the 165th Infantry in a letter to his mother, Mrs. John H. Valentine. He says: "We have caught women operating machine guns, and a boy of eleven years."

RUSH A MILLION TO SAVE RUSSIA, URGES PRINCE

Goluzin Says America Must Contribute 250,000—Tells of Czarevitch's Murder

London, Aug. 27.—The entente must rush a million soldiers—250,000 from America—to the aid of the counter revolutionaries if Russia is to be saved from Germany and the Bolsheviki.

Prince Nikolai Goluzin, son of Prince Alexander Goluzin, who was the master of ceremonies at the court of Nicholas II., made the above statement in an exclusive interview.

"Beware of Kerensky as a poisonous snake," the Prince continued, following this up with the sensational statement that France is now involving charges to the effect that the former Russian premier is in league with the Bolsheviki "in betraying Russia to Germany."

"I know on high authority," said the Prince, "that Kerensky since his overthrow has been living in archangel disguised by a long beard and going under the name of 'Citizen Marevitch,' with the full consent of, and in close touch with the Bolsheviki, who countenanced his trip to England.

"I expect the French government to expose him soon."

It was Prince Goluzin who today confirmed the murder by the Bolsheviki of the former Czarevitch. After they had killed the Czar at Ekaterinburg, they went to Nicholas Romanoff's fourteen-year-old son and said: "We killed your father—a dog's death for a dog's life."

The boy burst into tears, the Prince says, and then one of the murderers shot and killed him.

"He was a bonnie boy," the Prince continued. "He was just fourteen this month; always gay and up to all sorts of playful mischief. I was his playmate. We used to have lots of fun throwing pillows at each other."

Prince Goluzin is a strapping six-footer, a youth of twenty, on leave in London, where he is visiting his wife, after long service in Galicia.

"I believe," said he, "that Russia soon will be a constitutional monarchy. Grand Duke Michael probably will be the head. Russia will not be ready for a republic for many years.

"I think America has the ideal government."

GIVES UP $75 A WEEK TO GO TO THE FRONT

John O'Brien, of No. 1816 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, gave up a $75-a-week job at the Fore River Works today to join the Canadian Engineers. O'Brien, who is a native of Cork, Ireland, served twelve years in the British army, and has seen a great deal of fighting. "I have tried to keep out of the war because I have a wife and three children," he said at the British and Canadian Recruiting Mission, "but I cannot stand it any more. I know that the boys in the trenches have got to be relieved and I am physically strong, and of military age. I cannot see any excuse for my remaining in this country and holding down a $75 a week job that some older man can fill just as well."

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES FOR FR. SUPPLE

Requiem Mass in Charlestown for Pastor of St. Francis de Sales

The funeral of the Rev. James N. Supple, for thirty years pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church in Charlestown, took place today.

A requiem mass was celebrated at the church at 8 o'clock for the children of the parish. A second mass was celebrated at 10 o'clock, attended by adult mourners, not only from the parish for which Father Supple had labored as pastor for nearly one-third of a century, but also from many other parishes in the Boston archdiocese.

The officers of the second mass were: Rev. James McCormack, S. J., nephew of Father Supple, celebrant; Rev. Philip O'Donnell, deacon; Rev. Thomas McCarthy of Somerville, subdeacon. The eulogy was delivered by Father O'Donnell.

After the second mass there was an automobile cortege to Milford, Father Supple's native place, where burial took place.

"FAIR AND COOLER" TO REMAIN A WHILE

Fair and slightly cooler weather is scheduled to prevail tonight and tomorrow, with moderate north to east winds. With the exception of showers along the Ohio River, the entire country basked in sunshine today, with seasonable temperatures. Northfield, Vt., was the coolest spot in New England, with an 8 o'clock temperature of 52, while Nantucket boasted the most heat, with 68 at 8 o'clock. Boston was 66 at that hour.

PICKET TRIAL CLOSES IN BROCKTON

Decision Reserved — Attorney Geogan Has Another Tilt With Judge and Quits

Brockton, Aug. 27. — The trial of Mrs. Fatty Baxter, Mrs. Christina Debourski, Mrs. Dominea Debouski and Andrew Karmalitas, the four pickets in the Brockton shoe strike, arrested last week and charged with assault and battery on an officer, came to a close today. Judge W. A. Reed reserved decision until tomorrow.

The trial lasted two days and was marked by heated arguments between the judge and John G. Geogan of Whitman, counsel for the defense. The climax came today when, after finishing his argument, Attorney Geogan declared:

"I would like to ask that the remaining cases be taken up before another magistrate."

"What do you mean?" asked Judge Reed.

"I mean just what I said," declared Geogan, "and furthermore I wish it known that I am through with these strike cases." With these words he left the room.

A telegram was received late today by W. A. Davis, an examiner from the War Board in Washington in answer to one sent last night asking that the board change its rules and give out a decision even though the strikers are not back at their work. What the telegram contained is not known.

CHELSEA MAN IN COURT IN AUTO THEFT CASE

William J. McKevitt, 35, of Spencer street, Chelsea, a horse and automobile salesman, was in Municipal Court today on a charge of receiving stolen property.

The police claim that McKevitt received two automobiles which were stolen in Providence. Four men under arrest for robbery confessed, the police allege, that they sold the cars to McKevitt, and that McKevitt stripped the cars and remodeled them, making it impossible for them to be recognized. At the request of the police the case was continued two weeks. McKevitt was held in $2,000.

GRANDSON MUST CHANGE NAME TO GET FUND

Will of John Henry Cunningham Also Provides for a Loyal Friend of Family

If within sixty days after the death of his grandfather, John Henry Cunningham, John Ingersoll Cunningham does not change his name to John Henry Cunningham he will lose the benefit of a $15,000 trust fund created by the will of his grandfather, who died about a week ago. The testator also declared that if John Henry Cunningham, Jr., ever has a son bearing the name of Thomas, or any abbreviation thereof, such son shall receive only $500.

Mr. Cunningham, who for many years carried on the iron business, formerly lived in Chelsea, but in recent years resided on Commonwealth avenue, Boston. He was a man of [illegible] activity in action. At one time he was a member of the Executive Council of the Commonwealth.

To James J. Sullivan, who had been in Mr. Cunningham's employ, was given $2,500 in appreciation of his loyalty to the Cunningham family, and William H. Bursley, the associate of Mr. Cunningham in business, was remembered with a gift of $5,000 in appreciation of his honesty and loyalty.

The widow, Mrs. Frances E. Cunningham, is to have substantially all the personal property left by her husband, and an income of $10,000 a year. A like sum out of the income of a trust fund, which includes all the residue of Mr. Cunningham's estate, is to be paid each year to his son, John Henry Cunningham, and his daughter, Sara C. Willis. Trust funds also are established for grandchildren of Mr. Cunningham.

Mr. Cunningham made his will on November 10, 1914, and his son John Henry Cunningham, Jr., and the old Colony Trust Company, are named as executors and trustees.

CAPT. HOBAN ARRAIGNED IN FITCHBURG COURT

Fitchburg, Aug. 27.—Captain George Hoban of Camp Devens pleaded not guilty in Police Court here today to a charge made against him by military policemen when he was arrested with Charlotte Scheirman, seventeen of Lunenburg. The court room was overcrowded.

Major Thomas L. Walsh, counsel for Captain Hoban, argued for elimination of bail, which was fixed at $500 by Judge Gallagher. The captain said he could not raise that amount. As he is within military jurisdiction and cannot leave Camp Devens the bail order was revoked and the case was continued to September 10.

DAVID I. WALSH TO PRESENT SWIM PRIZES

To Greet the Winners of American Carnival on Keith's Stage

Through the courtesy of the management of B. F. Keith's Theatre on Washington street, Boston, the five girls who came in first in the swimming race run under the auspices of the Boston American in the Charles River Basin last Saturday afternoon will soon be presented a prize by former Governor David I. Walsh in that playhouse Friday evening. The presentations will be made during the performance.

The young women who will receive the prizes are the Misses Esther Miron of Webster, Rose Tonely of South Boston, Irene Demaris of Ludlow, Olive Holland of Wollaston and Katherine McArdle of South Boston. These girls finished in the order named in the great race, a distance of one and one-half miles and 200 feet. Miss Miron, winner of the first prize, also carried off the honor of being New England's champion swimmer.

MISS WHITTIER HAS KICK.

Miss Miron covered the course from the float of the Metropolitan Park Commission, opposite the Union Boat Club, up-stream to the stake boat near Harvard bridge and back again to the starting point in fifty-six minutes and four-fifths second. She is the daughter of the late J. C. Miron of theatrical fame and niece of W. J. Kearns, who is constructing the United States quartermaster's buildings in South Boston.

Miss Florence E. Whittier of No. 8 Sumner terrace, Dorchester, writes the Swimming Editor that she was "there in her determination to finish the race." She was the thirty-fifth girl to round the stake boat, and when near the starting point was taken from the water by the lifeguards against her wishes. But they were advised to order all girls who had been in the water a long time to get out for health reasons. The Swimming Editor issued this order at the request of physicians. The water was rather rough. The plucky spirit of Miss Whittier would have continued the race, despite the entreaties of the lifeguards.

WRITES POETRY.

Miss Whittier is a graduate of the Roxbury High School. She is a poet of no mean ability, as is attested by the following contribution to the AMERICAN:

"STICKING TO IT."

O the joy of being in it!
In a thrill which knows no limit,
And with "do or die" the spirit,
If you stick it, you can win it!

The you be the last, stick to it,
If you want to, you can do it,
If a speaker you will run it,
So be a good sport, go thru it!

Then you'll know that you can do it,
For you've proved that your guts in it
And will say "Swimming" is IT!
Will be pointed at now, go to it!

HOWARD PUTNAM HARRIS OF SALEM, DEAD, AGED 67

Salem, Aug. 27.—Howard Putnam Harris, formerly purchasing agent for the city, died early today at his home, No. 128 Bridge street, in his 68th year. He had been in poor health since last January, when he resigned his position. He was born in Salem. He is survived by two sons, Howard S. and Lieutenant Phillip H. Harris, the latter stationed in Texas, and by two daughters, Miss Mary Bertram Harris of Salem and Mrs. William G. Webber of Boston.

SOLDIER FROM SALEM DROWNED IN MARYLAND

Salem, Aug. 27.—Word was received today of the drowning yesterday, at Fort Howard, Maryland, of Private Peter A. McDonough, 25 years of age, one of the men in the selective draft who left here on July 8. McDonough was the son of Mrs. Mary J. Maud, and the late Peter A. McDonough, of No. 11 Warren street.

Kermit Roosevelt Is Gazetted for British Cross

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 27.—Lieutenant Kermit Roosevelt, the youngest son of the ex-President, has been gazetted for the Military Cross.

When the United States declared war on Germany, Kermit sought and obtained a commission with the British forces in Mesopotamia. Later he obtained a transfer, and for several months has been engaged in the activities on the western front.

FISH PRICES SOAR IN SPITE OF BIG CATCH

Fish prices at the Boston Fish Pier, South Boston, are soaring, despite heavy receipts of fish. Yesterday and today over 1,300,000 pounds of fresh fish have been received here. Dealers ascribe the high prices to the sinking of vessels. Steak cod sold for $18.33 a hundredweight. Swordfish wholesaled for 31 cents a pound. The swordfishing season, practically over, and it was the swordfishing fleet which bore the brunt of the German submarine raids.

EXPECT WILSON APPEAL TO MEN IN SHIPYARDS

Washington, Aug. 27—The demands of shipyard workers of the country for a wage of $1 an hour, with double time for holidays and overtime and a half holiday on Saturday, have precipitated a grave situation, it was indicated today when it was learned that the Shipbuilding Labor Adjustment Board, to whose the demands were submitted, would confer with President Wilson late this afternoon.

The board has had the demands under consideration for more than a week, and it is known that the members fear a general strike if the men are turned down.

While members of the board refused today to state the object of their appointment with the President, it is believed that they will ask him to issue a personal appeal to the men to remain at work as a patriotic duty, pointing out the extreme importance of their work at this time and calling to their attention the grave results that would follow cessation of work.

OVERSTAYED HIS LEAVE, SUICIDE WITH SHOTGUN

Leicester, Aug. 27.—Associate Medical Examiner F. D. Hart today pronounced the death of Private Elmer Chase of the 46th Company, 12th Battalion, 151st Depot Brigade, self-inflicted. Chase killed himself with a shotgun at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gower, his brother-in-law and sister.

Chase, stationed at Camp Devens, got a thirty-six-hour furlough a week ago Saturday, and went to Maine to visit relatives. Overstaying his leave, he wrote to the camp and received orders to report at once. On the way from Maine he stopped at his brother-in-law's home. Saturday evening he left, presumably for Camp Devens. Sunday he returned, saying he had been granted additional leave.

YANKEE FLIERS BLOW UP BIG AMMUNITION DUMP

With the American Army in France, Aug. 27.—Two particularly good hits were observed when American airmen bombed Conflans Sunday it was learned today. A big ammunition dump was set on fire and a roundhouse was heavily damaged. Two German planes followed the American machines back to the battle line but did not attack them.

FITCHBURG PARK IS CLOSED TO AYER MEN

Camp Devens Authorities Open Campaigns Against Vice and Auto Speeding

Camp Devens, Ayer, Aug. 27.—Crusades against vice at Whalom Park and against the speeding of automobiles and motorcycles have been started by officers at headquarters, and commissioned officers and enlisted men of the camp have been forbidden to visit the Fitchburg pleasure park and ordered to obey the speed laws in and out of camp.

High ranking officers have been conducting a secret investigation of conditions at Whalom Park with the results that the actions of young girls and men in uniform were found to be not of the best for the army, and military police will guard the park to keep all men of the service from the place.

Several arrests have been made by the State police, one a battalion commander of the depot brigade who appeared in the Fitchburg court charged with an offence with a seventeen-year-old Lunenburg girl.

The ban will remain on for the remainder of the season and any man found in the limits of the park will be placed under arrest.

A campaign will also be made against soldiers and girls meeting on the road between camp and Shirley.

The order compelling the men in uniform to abide by the traffic and speed regulations was issued as a result of accidents this season on roads from camp. Several deaths have occurred as a result of reckless driving.

Men of the service will be compelled to obey the rules of the camp regulating speeding and the State laws on the public highways. Violations will be dealt with severely.

Men operating their own cars will be held responsible, and those riding in public cars are compelled to notify the driver of his violation of the law and if he refuses to obey, the offender is to be turned over to the civil authorities.

Drivers holding licenses to operate in camp will have their privileges revoked if they are reported for any infraction of the law. Enlisted men driving government cars and motorcycles with little cars are included in the order.

Private John C. Jeffries of Manchester, Ct., injured while visiting his home, was brought to the base hospital suffering from bruises to the head and face received in an automobile accident.

The Margaret Brent Suffrage Association Military Entertainment Committee will stage a vaudeville show tonight in the Knights of Columbus hut opposite the Liberty Theatre. The show was arranged by Secretary John Owens.

A program of singing, dancing and readings has been arranged. Dr. Helen L. Doherty of the base hospital will act as accompanist.

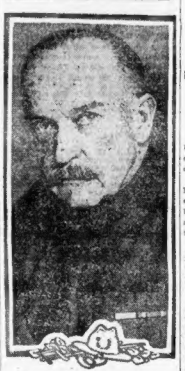
The men of the camp were privileged to watch the strong-jawed man of the entertainment show his strength at a show at the Jewish Welfare Hut when he pulled from a heavy target all the nails which had been driven in with a hammer, and broke a thirty penny spike with his teeth. He also carried men around by his teeth and juggled chairs and tables and jumped from a plank with a table in his mouth and chairs in his hands. The music was under the direction of Morris Perimutter, band leader of the 73rd Regiment, who is organizing a hut orchestra.

No duty Sunday and Monday, Labor Day, has been the order issued, and a percentage of the men will be allowed home for the two days.

Major O. M. Dixon, commander of the 34th Machine Gun Battalion, has arrived to assume command of his new outfit.

Company L of the 42nd Regiment arrived in camp from Baltimore and has been quartered in the barracks

COLONEL GEORGE M. DUNN, new Judge-Advocate of the Department of the Northeast.



Colonel George M. Dunn, one of the "Rough Riders" in the Spanish War, took up his work today as judge-advocate of the Department of the Northeast, succeeding Major Philip H. Stoll, who has gone to Camp Devens.

Colonel Dunn entered the army in 1898, after graduating from Washington University the same year. His early education was obtained at Phillips Academy, Andover.

Before coming to the Northeastern Department, he was Judge-advocate in the Southern Department.

MOVING DAY AT THE RADIO SCHOOL

Headquarters in Pierce Hall to Be Remodelled—Boys Practicing Yells

By S. HARRY FERRIS.

U. S. Naval Radio School, Cambridge, Aug. 27.—Today is "moving day" at Pierce Hall, the headquarters of the school.

Radio City on Cambridge Common has been taken possession of in its entirety by the sailors. Lights have been turned on in all of the buildings, although the furnishings of some of them are not complete.

Nevertheless, the boys have moved in, and when the dedication ceremonies are held in the big new instruction hall on the Palfrey estate August 30 the affairs of the new city will be in fair running order.

NO MORE CROWDING.

One of the results of the occupation of the new building has been to easing-up in the somewhat crowded conditions that formerly existed at the headquarters.

For one thing, the number of men in the study halls is being reduced so that in future every sailor will have at least fifteen feet of floor space for his exclusive use, a change which it is believed will tend to improve the health conditions among the Radio boys.

A considerable changing over of offices in Pierce Hall is also under way to provide more space for the better handling of the administrative affairs of the school.

The office of Captain Nat F. Ayer, commanding officer, will remain as at present, but considerable additional space will be given to the departments of Paymaster P. T. M. Lathrop and the school's medical officer, Dr. J. W. Hammond.

PRACTICING CHEERS.

The Radio boys in their spare moments are practicing some ear-splitting and lung-rending cheers that will make anything ever attempted in the old days by Harvard boys appear of infantile proportions.

Ensign Bamblilard has been appointed a cheer leader and under his direction the sailors are rapidly acquiring proficiency in making noises of a distinctive character, that will let the world know that the Radio School is on earth.

The Hostess' House and the "Y" hut are handing out invitations today for a special reception party to be given Wednesday evening by the young women of the Cambridge Y. W. C. A.

ARMY NOTES

George D. Cockrell of Douglas, Arizona, has been appointed sergeant, 1st class, in the finance department of the Department of the Northeast.

* * *

Major Foster Veitenheimer, signal corps officer, whose department has doubled in work on account of Government contracts, left today for New York, where he will speak on the signal corps' work as represented by the Department of the Northeast.

PLACARDS INVITE ENLISTED MEN TO FREE RIDES

Stick the new sticker on your automobile and give service men free rides.

The new sticker, approved by the War Camp Community Service, is a uniform automobile placard inviting soldiers and sailors to enjoy auto rides.

Men in Service
Welcome to Ride

That's the way the sticker reads in white letters on a blue field. The sticker, which is a foot long and four inches wide, also bears the official seal of the War Camp Community Service. The invitation is easy to read and purposely attracts attention.

The stickers are for circulation among automobile owners. In Boston they will be distributed from the War Camp Community Service, room 511 Little building, Boylston and Tremont streets, from motion picture houses, the Rotary Club, Boston Chamber of Commerce and the thirty six hospitality centers in the Metropolitan District.

CROWDER ISSUES NEW DRAFT ORDERS

30 Pages of Tentative Instructions Sent to Officials of All Local Wards

Washington, Aug. 27.—Tentative instructions to officials of all local boards having charge of the registering of the 13,000,000 man-power list has been issued by Provost Marshal General Crowder's office. The instructions cover thirty printed pages and determine all questions which may arise in assuring the enrollment of the men of America between the ages of 18 to 21 and 31 to 45, inclusive.

All men who have passed their 18th birthday and have not yet attained their 46th must register, except:

(a) Those registered under the act of May 18, 1917, (the original draft act which fixed the ages from twenty-one to thirty inclusive) and those registered under the act approved May 20 (providing for the registration of those coming of age after the first registration).

(b) Officers and enlisted men of the regular army, the national army, the national guard, if in the service of the United States and officers of the officers reserve and enlisted men of the enlisted reserve, if in the service of the United States.

ENLISTED MEN EXEMPT.

(c) Officers and enlisted men of the navy and marine corps and of the naval reserve and marine corps respectively, if in the service of the United States.

All such persons, however, must register immediately upon leaving the service of the United States and citizens and persons who have declared their intention of becoming citizens, who do not register because they are out of the country on the day of registration, must register within four days of their return to the country.

The same registration machinery is to be used in the first registration, and use of election booths is to be continued. The booths will be open from 7 a. m. until 9 p. m., and placards of instruction to the registrants will be posted conspicuously.

The provost marshal general warns everyone that violation of the regulations or failure to register is a misdemeanor, punishable by a year's imprisonment.

NEW NUMBERING RULES.

Rules regarding the numbering of cards are somewhat changed. The announcement says:

"On the day following the registration, the local board will cause to be numbered consecutively, beginning with Number 1, all the cards in its possession without attempting to arrange them alphabetically or any other way. These numbers will be the 'serial numbers' for the registrants.

"Subsequent regulations will be issued prescribing the method of determining the 'order numbers' (governing the order of liability to service) and no registration number will be finally assigned to any man. Each board will prepare five identical lists of the names of all registrants with the 'serial number' beside each name. One of these lists will be posted in the office of the board, one made accessible to the press, etc.

"It will be the duty of all registrants to ascertain their serial numbers in order that, when the drawing takes place at Washington, they will know their 'order of liability' to call."

GETS AWAY FROM WALTHAM POLICE

THIRSTY TRAMP IS NEW CLEW IN DOUBLE DEATH

Unkempt Man Demanded Drink of Water Soon After the Kupfer-Janny Tragedy

By International News Service.

Rahway, N. J., Aug. 27.—Search for the slayers of Arthur L. Kupfer and Edith Janny was renewed today.

An unkempt stranger who staggered into a farm yard nearby soon after the crime was committed last Thursday morning and cried:

"For God's sake, give me a drink of water," is the latest clew.

Authorities who had virtually given up the case have the man's description.

Kupfer and Miss Janny, whose bodies were found, two miles apart, along the highway leading from this town, were buried Sunday.

Victims of the Tragedy Once Lived in Bridgeport; Childhood Sweethearts

Bridgeport, Ct., Aug. 27.—Widespread interest is manifest in this city concerning the Rahway murder mystery, in which Arthur L. Kupfer, the superintendent of the Perth Amboy paper factory, and Miss Edith Janny, the cashier of a Perth Amboy hotel, were shot to death in Kupfer's automobile, as both victims were long residents of Bridgeport and have many friends here.

It is said that Arthur Kupfer and Edith Janny were boy and girl sweethearts while attending school in Bridgeport and that it was this childhood courtship which brought them together when they met again in Perth Amboy.

Arthur Kupfer was the son of Sigmund Kupfer of Elm street. The father, who was in the wholesale and retail liquor business in the city for about twenty-two years, died in 1902, and since that time the members of the Kupfer family, including his crippled widow, two sons and three daughters, have been living in New York City. The family was prominent in affairs of the Congregation Ohnai Israel, later known as the Park Avenue Temple.

Miss Janny is said to be well known in the south end of Bridgeport, and quite a young girl attended the Prospect Grammar School.

Further details of Miss Janny's life while in Bridgeport are lacking, but one local police believe they will be able to pick up material here which will solve the mystery at present surrounding the double assassination.

SIX KILLED IN WEEK AT U. S. AVIATION FIELDS

Washington, Aug. 27.—Six fatalities, or one for every 3,638 hours and 101,946 miles flown, occurred at the flying fields of the country for the week ended August 17, the War Department announced today. One death occurred at each of the following fields: Brooks, San Antonio, Texas; Carlstrom, Arcadia, Fla.; Carruthers, Benbrook, Tex.; Chanute, Rantoul, Ill.; Kelly, San Antonio, Tex., and Post, Fort Sill, Okla.

DRAFTEES AT REVERE LEAVE FOR THE SOUTH

Twenty-four young men from Revere and three from Winthrop left today for Camp Jackson, South Carolina. They were given a reception at the council chamber of the Revere City Hall and taken to the train in automobiles. Mayor Hall, President Roscoe Walsworth of the City Council, ex-Mayor Curtis and Rev. John P. Farna of the Immaculate Conception Church spoke.

U-BOAT SINKS FIVE VESSELS OFF COAST

Five Persons on Steamer Erie Wounded by Shells; Gloucester Fishing Craft Destroyed

St. Pierre, Miquelon, Aug. 27.—The steamer Eric, 600 tons, and four fishing schooners have been sunk by a German U-boat. Five of the members of the crew of the Eric were wounded by shell fire from the submarine.

The Eric is owned by St. Johns, N. F., interests. It was destroyed by shell fire.

The fishing craft sunk were the J. J. Flaherty of Gloucester, Mass.; the C. M. Walters, the E. B. Walters and the Verna D. Adams, all of Lunenburg, N. S.

The U-boat used bombs to destroy the fishing schooners.

No loss of life as a result of the five sinkings has been reported. Those have been about seven members of the crews of the lost craft iaanded here.

The fishing vessels were sunk at a point farther East than any at which a submarine has yet operated.

The J. J. Flaherty was the largest of the Gloucester fishing fleet. She was owned by the Gorton, Pew Fisheries Company and commanded by Captain Charles T. Gregory of Gloucester, and all of her crew of twenty-four men are from Gloucester.

She was built in 1905, at a cost as it was taxes gross and 124 tons net register, 101.7 feet long, 23.4 feet beam and 12 feet draft. She left Gloucester May 21 on a trip for salt cod, and it is estimated that she had on board 200,000 pounds, valued at $14,000. The vessel was valued at between $35,000 and $40,000.

The C. M. Walters is a 107-ton craft, built in 1916 and owned by Wilson H. Walters of Lunenburg, N. S. The E. B. Walters was a 124-ton vessel and was built in 1913 and owned by Edmund Walters of Lunenburg, N. S.

Washington, Aug. 27.—Figures furnished from official sources show the value of the work that has been done by the navy on this side of the Atlantic in opposition to the two raids of the German U-boats. The problem it was stated, was this:

There are 1,000 miles of coast to guard it to at least a distance of 100 miles to at least a distance of 100 miles from the shore line. This makes a total of 100,000 square miles.

It would be necessary to employ 1,000 ships on the basis of one to every 100 square miles, that is, each ship would have to cruise on a square which was ten miles on each side. If, however, it was possible to utilize only 100 ships, which is a large number, each ship would have to cover an area of 1,000 square miles.

It is pointed out by officials that with that enormous task before it the number of ships sunk has been very small, and this is the more remarkable since the United States was obliged to concentrate the better part of its available force on this side of the transport service while giving the Allies the duty of convoying in large part the supply ships and other similar vessels.

6 Lost, 9 Missing Is Toll by Sinking of Steamer Lake Edon

Washington, Aug. 27.—The Navy Department is informed that all except one of the naval armed guard of the steamship Lake Edon, torpedoed and sunk in foreign waters on August 21, have been landed. The missing man is Ralph Eugene Hooten, gunner, father, William Arlington Hooten, Laurel Hill, Fla.

The following of the crew are supposed to have been drowned or killed by the explosion of the torpedo:

George Bruce, master; C. Cras, second engineer; P. Denham, fourth engineer; E. Maller, boatswain, A. Martin and Muller.

The following members of the crew were still missing at last accounts:

Henry Ford's Name on Two Tickets for U. S. Senator

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 27.—Henry Ford's name appearing on both Democratic and Republican primary tickets for United States Senator, holds the chief interest in Michigan's wartime curtain raiser election today. Political authorities are calling the situation the queerest in the State's history.

Mr. Ford, requested to enter the race by the President, is opposed on the Republican ticket by former Governor Chase Osborn, Truman H. Newberry and William P. Simpson.

On the Democratic ticket the automobile manufacturer faces James W. Helme, who is alleged to be closely linked with the Newberry candidacy. Incidentally Mr. Newberry has issued a statement to the effect that if any large sums of money have been spent in his interest they have been spent by his friends without his knowledge and consent.

AESTHETIC DANCING FOR MUNITIONS WORKERS

Washington, Aug. 27. — Aesthetic dancing is being taught French munitions workers at the Y. M. C. A. lovers or clubhouses, the Y. M. C. A. War Work Council announced today. "Recreation is essential to the efficiency of the workers and dancing offers greater relaxation than any other form of amusement," said the council. "Aesthetic dancing carries the dancer entirely away from the ordinary things of life and draws upon the imagination for all that is beautiful."

TWENTY-ONE GIVEN SEND-OFF AT WALTHAM

By HUGH S. FULLERTON

Imagine a world's series in which the dope indicates that Dave Shean, cast off by half a dozen major league clubs, is the class of three players who figure to have a chance to participate in the contests.

Second base, the most important of the infield positions, the keystone of the defense, the most difficult position on a team to play properly (although shortstops will argue this), with two men of low power playing a world's series. It shows to what an extent baseball has slumped this season.

The dope figures show that the class of the secondbasemen in this world's series is more than 100 points lower than in the 1917 series and it is possible that the dope figures will indicate that second base is the weakest point in the teams engaged.

That fact equalizes matters considerably, but accents the opportunity for luck in hitting and the breaks of the game to decide a series, the object of which was to prove which is the best team.

SHEAN A GOOD PLODDER.

Shean is perhaps one of the most interesting cases in the history of the game. Discarded all around the circuit because of weak hitting, he has been a faithful, if rather plodding, player, smart, intelligent, and earnest.

This year he got his chance and has seized it. There is a psychological effect on all players in being with a winning team, and usually takes form of a sharp increase in hitting. Also it is inevitable that infielding on a winning team, with good pitching, is easier than working behind pitchers who are being hit hard all the time.

Further, the pitching against a winning team always is softer on the average. All of these things have tended to improve Shean's work, but the great increase has been in spirit and confidence he has found at last.

When we come to apply these to a world's series, however, the psychological effect diminishes. Shean has gained some points because the pitching which the Cubs will use to stop Ruth, McInnis, Hooper and the great hitters of the team also will tend to help Shean's chances of hitting safely.

HAS PRAISE FOR ZEIDER.

You often find that the supposed weak hitters of the world's series team are the batting heroes, merely because the pitchers exhaust themselves and their arts to stop the sluggers and are humped by those not expected to hit hard.

However, we cannot figure Shean to do any great amount of hitting against the Cub twirlers. In fact, it looks as if we are compelled to almost count the second basemen out of the attack. They certainly do not figure to have a place among the shock troops.

Zeider always has been a weak hitter, and often and erratic fielder, but Bubbles is a dangerous ball player. He is extremely smart, resourceful and tricky, and, if the rules permitted stealing first base, he would today rank as one of the Ty Cobbs of the game.

Zeider has been hitting well this year, at least better than usual, and meeting the ball squarely, while his audacious running on the bases has contributed largely to the Cub successes.

He has broken up many games by his startling moves on the bases and my figures indicate that he probably has been successful in a larger percentage of his efforts than any player in either league, which shows what he can do if he reaches first base.

WON'T PUMMEL SMOKY JOE.

Against the Red Sox Zeider would hit somewhat better than he would against the Cleveland pitchers, because Coveleskie, Morton and Bagby all would tend to make a bat waver out of him. He does not figure to hit nearly as well against the Red Sox pitchers as against the twirlers of his own circuit.

Bush will trouble him greatly. He probably would hit against Mays better even than against Jones, and whether he gets a foul off Ruth or not depends upon Babe's condition on his pitching days.

In fielding Zeider will be slightly handicapped against the Red Sox because the team is faster than the majority of those against which he has been working. Zeider has not shown well in the National this year in games against speedy teams, indicating that he cannot work as fast as he could in former years.

Mitchell has been trying Pick and McCabe out at second to replace Zeider in case the veteran's feet bother him in the series, but one thing is certain, and that is that Zeider will play with both feet off unless ordered out.

He is one of the gamest men in baseball.

Tomorrow we will tackle the shortstops, where there is room in all directions. The shortstops stand out strongly in relief as compared with the second and third basemen of the two teams.

All Choices Win in First Day's Play for Singles' Crown

Forest Hills, L. I., Aug. 27.—The leading lights of the tennis world came through the opening round of the national singles championship tournament with little difficulty.

R. Lindley Murray, California star and winner of last year's patriotic tournament, was an easy victor over Jack Dudley of Washington, D. C., 6—0, 6—0, 6—1.

Frederick R. Alexander, the international; Russell N. Dana, Rhode Island veteran; Ichiya Kumagae, Jap champion, and his partner, Sellchiro Kasio, representing the West Side Tennis Club; Ralph H. Burdick, Western champion; Theodore R. Pell, former Indoor champion; William T. Tilden, 2d, and the veteran, Henry B. O'Hoyle, were among the winners.

Sergeant Harold Throckmorton, former junior champion, and Harold L. Taylor of Brooklyn were the heroes of the opening day's play. They battled through five gruelling sets, Throckmorton finally winning, 6—8, 6—2, 11—9, 7—9, 13—11. The match was the longest ever decided in a national tournament, going eighty-two games for a total of 503 points.

Ichiya Kumagae won from Walter L. Page, former Metropolitan champion and Cornell athlete, 6—0, 6—4, 6—0.

Tilden was not compelled to play against W. P. Gilbert, winning by default. Pell was again in form, working his famous backhand stroke overtime and winning from J. B. Hughes, Pelham Bay, 6—2, 6—2, 6—3.

GERARD AND MITCHELL TOP C. A. C. FISTIC BILL

Al Gerard of the North End and Charley Mitchell of Braintree, two of this section's speediest little bifflists, will hook up in the main event on Friday night's card at the Commercial A. C. They are down to travel over the ten-round route.

Shaver O'Brien of South Boston and Dave Powers of Malden, and Young Velo of Chelsea and Johnny McMenamin of Cambridge, also go on in ten-rounders. Eddie Ford of South Boston and Jimmy McKenna, a newcomer from over Connecticut way, are to furnish the six-round curtain-raiser.

NUTMEG II. SCORES IN CLASS A OPENING DAY

They're off in the 50th anniversary week—gratis at the South Boston Yacht Club. Nutmeg II, owned by F. E. M. South won in handy style in Class A. Mouse, property of H. H. Colby, scored in Class I; Sintram, Paul Murphy, was best in Class B and Dreamer, George Walters, was the winner in Class H. The members were "pulling" for more wind today. The calm slowed up the first day's sport.

HAL CHASE SUES REDS FOR SALARY HELD OUT

Cincinnati, Aug. 27.—Hal Chase, Reds' suspended first baseman, has sued the club for $1,690, which he claims is salary due him and unpaid, in January, 1917, he signed a two-year contract, his annual fee being $7,800. When Chase fell from grace last month he was indefinitely suspended by Manager Mathewson and has not seen the cashier since.

MATTY ENTERS SERVICE AFTER TODAY'S GAME

Cincinnati, Aug. 27.—The Braves stayed over to play the Reds today, rain preventing their final combat of the series booked for yesterday. Manager Christie Mathewson quits his post after the matinee. He's to take the night train for Washington, having been appointed a captain in the Chemical Warfare Service.

Dick Rudolph and Larry Jacobus were today's pitching selections.

CUBS AND HON. BAN TO DONATE TO WAR FUND

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Members of the Cubs have unanimously voted to donate 10 per cent. of their share of the world's series receipts to war charities, as suggested by the National Commission. President B. B. Johnson of the American League, states he will hand over the $250 allotted him for his personal expenses to the good cause.

ONCE AGAIN DOES RAIN PREVENT REVERE RACE

Again did rain prevent the running off of the Medonna-Corry and Wiley-Linart forty-mile race at the Revere bicycle track. It now goes over until tomorrow night, states Manager Butler. The 100-kilometer international sweepstakes, originally carded for tomorrow night, has been put over until a later date.

LOUIS TELLIER IS TOP SCORER AT WORCESTER

Worcester, Aug. 27.—Louis Tellier of the Country Club, Holden, topped the field of amateur-professional golfers at the Worcester Country Club. His card was 156. Chris McGrath, local professional, was second, with 152.

Penn State Hires Bezdek

Pittsburgh, Aug. 27.—Hugo Bezdek, manager of the Pirates, has been appointed athletic director at Penn State College.

DIRECTUM J. TO TAKE WORD IN 2:06 PACE

Neponset Stake Features Day's Harness Card at Readville—Good Field in 2:20 Trot

GUS, DALY'S SELECTIONS. AT READVILLE

2:14 pace—The Edwards, purse $1,000—Silver King, Lord Lochabar, Minequa Boy.

2.20 trot—The Charles River, purse $1,000—Colin Campbell, Russell Hill, Hawkins.

2:06 pace—The Neponset, purse $3,000—Directum J., Little Battiste, Un.

By GUS DALY.

Today's card at Readville's Grand Circuit session has for its feature event the Neponset 2:06 pace, valuation $3,000.

The American Horse Breeder Futurity for pacers, worth $1,057, comes next. This event has but three listed to take the word.

The half-miters will come into their own in the 2:14 pace. It is exclusively for two-lapped performers.

This race should be a hummer. With Crosier back of Lord Lochabar, this one will force Silver King to the limit. Still the latter should score, with Lord Lochabar second and Minequa Boy third.

LOCAL HORSES TO GO.

The Charles River, for 2:20 trotters, owned by members of the Metropolitan Driving Club of Boston, should be productive of a lot of keen racing. C. H. Traiser's Colin Campbell is best and should land in front. Russell Hill and Hawkins figure next in the order named.

The Neponset is a tough one to pick. Directum J., one of Tommy Murphy's best, is my choice, with Little Battiste second and Un in the show position.

The opening day's sport was witnessed by a fine crowd. The Blue Hill was won by Walter Cox's Lu Princeton. He broke badly during the racing of the first heat and narrowly escaped the danger signal. After this he came on to a handy win.

PERISCOPE ROBS UP.

Periscope won the Boston Globe event for two-year-old trotters after as fine an exhibition of "youngster racing" ever witnessed in New England.

The Royal Knight accounted for the Readville. After laying away the first heat, he came home to a victory in rather hollow fashion.

The Short Ship Circuit followers shouted with glee when Al Wilson's game gelding, Tom Donohue, took Tommy Murphy's pacer, Billy Jackson, to the camp in an eyelash finish.

During the racing of the third heat Tom Donohue and Kathleen Gale both fell back of the distance flag, but placed, the race going to Tom Donohue, he having won the first two heats.

AT READVILLE ENTRIES

2:14 pace—The Edwards, purse $1,000: Silver King, Lord Lochabar, Ellis Forster, Medlake, Minequa Boy, Millard D., Miss Rice, Rambling Jim, Hollywood Billy.

2:20 trot—The Charles River purse $1,000: Silver King, Lord Lochabar, Ellis Forster, Medlake, Little Battiste, Walter Cochato, Un, Edward Forbes.

2:06 pace—The Neponset, purse $3,000: Little Battiste, Walter Cochato, Un, Edward F., Mary Rosalind Forbes, Directum J., Bay Mack.

Three-year-old pace — Horse Breeder Futurity, $1,057: Flower Forbes, Award, Edna Early.

JONES SLATED TO STOP DASH OF TIGERS

It was up to Samuel Jones, pitcher, to step out today and bring the Red Sox closer to the much-desired mathematical certainty of the American League pennant.

Carl Mays tried yesterday against Detroit and failed, the locals losing to the Tigers for the first time this season at Fenway. The count was 9 to 2.

Temperamental Tyrus Cobb was late for the pastime, arriving in the fourth. He celebrated, however, by busting out a homer in the eighth, riding Donie Bush in before him.

Miller, playing left, vice Ruth, made good to the extent of knocking off two runs in the opening frame, and giving his team the fore.

FRAZEE TABLES SERIES' KICK

By NICK FLATLEY.

The 1918 World's Series will open in Chicago Wednesday, September 4, will continue for three days, and then move on to Boston for three or four of five more, whatever the occasion may call for, provided, of course, the Red Sox win the pennant, which they will, to be sure, unless something entirely unheard of transpires in the next few days.

It has developed that the plan announced for the series was not any anti-Frazee move on the part of Byron B. Johnson, but followed the tossing of a coin at a meeting of the National Commission.

At said meeting it was decided that the new system would be in order with the fines, saving extra railroad fares and reducing transportation to a minimum, as per government request.

Garry Herrmann announces that the local owner had made his somewhat exciting statement before getting the official bulletin anent the tossing of the coin at the meeting aforesaid.

So another possible baseball war has been averted, and nothing remains now but for the season to wind down to the end, while the experts tell the world what will happen therein.

TERRY BROOKS AND DOYLE ON AT TRIPLE-A

Local flatic products in the main will perform on tonight's Armory A. A. bill at the Armsa. It's not a fancy menu, but the boys going to make up the four pairs hold membership in the Up and Up Club and the show should register a hit.

Terry Brooks, West End battler, one of the sports most willing members, meets Paul Doyle of New York in the twelve-round final event.

Shaver O'Brien, South Boston southpaw, will have to be at his best in order to dispose of crafty Walter Butler, whom he meets in the eight-round semi-final.

This Day in Our History

THIS is the anniversary of the landing in 1619 in Virginia of a cargo of twenty negroes to be sold as slaves. About a year later the Pilgrims landed in New England, and the two opposing elements were planted in America, destined to be in constant conflict for years.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

Jim Comforts Anne, Yet She Feels That He Must Have Some Hidden Terror in His Life

CHAPTER VIII.

(Copyright, 1918, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

"I'M understands! Jim understands!" My heart is singing this over and over again. Yesterday was a perfect day. A day of golden happiness. But I don't want to hold life here at flood-tide. I am ready for what may come—ready to face things with my man.

Theoretically I am packing—saying good-by to the chints-hung room of our first, shy dreams together. But actually I am facing out toward life with open arms—ready to meet what comes, be it good or ill. For Jim understands.

It was the last day of our honeymoon week. We ran away from the world and its people. We picnicked on the banks of a tiny stream at noon and rested in the shade of fragrant pine and balsam. We had ham and bread and raspberries and thick cream in a farmhouse at 7 and then drove into the heart of the sunset and got lost on a little wandering road that ribboned its way along the sound and in and out of fields of baby wheat and through a grove of giant trees, and then came boldly at last out on the highway—the black satin straight road itself.

Soon came darkness and the moon—a stolen kiss in the shadow of a high hedge—hearts beating high with love and youth.

And then it happened. I met the thing of which I had been in mortal terror all my life!

We were driving home between high hedges of that green and white wild honeysuckle that they call Mariner's Delight down Gloucester way—they say the fishermen scent it far at sea and know they're coming home—and I begged Jim to stop the car so I could breathe in the fragrance of those hedges.

A Small Injury

Jim got out and cut great sprays of the honeysuckle and stowed them in the folded top of the car behind us. Just as we were driving on again through the quiet darkness I spied on the shoulder of his uniform an ugly burr. I leaned over and plucked it with my left hand.

The burr clung to my middle finger—clung and stuck. I tried to loosen it with my other hand, but as I touched it—and even before I felt the prickly relief so unlike a burr, it was back on Jim's shoulder again and he was knocking it off with his gauntlets.

"Did the bee sting you?" he asked, tenderly. "Well drive right to the nearest doctor's. Sometimes they poison you like the mischief. I don't want my little Anne hurt! Does the finger hurt now? Oh, I'm so sorry, dear—I don't want to think you are suffering so. Don't sob!"

But I wasn't sobbing—laughing, rather. Laughing deep and hard and right from my heart. So this was all there was to a bee sting! An ugly prick. And all my life I had been haunted by a hideous fear of bees!

When I was a little girl I used to come back from our front gate screaming with fear. A bee was following me. I couldn't go to school. I was afraid—afraid. The darling little mother who is gone now would try to pacify her Babbie; my young step-brother Neal—only a baby then, but with a large scorn of other people's "hogies"—would cavort about me shouting:

"Babbie's afraid of de bee—afraid of its stick—Babbie's afraid de sticker will stick her."

And I would stand shaking in terror I couldn't explain. The furry coat, the little beady eyes, the horrible possibilities of the sting—they were not all. The bee filled my soul with shrinking fear of all the unknowable, mysterious things of life.

Then Father Andrew Hyland, who had married my little mother when I was only a wee thing, and who had adopted me as his own, would take me gravely by the hand and say:

"The bee won't touch you, Babbie. It's perfectly safe now, but I shall walk to school with my little girl."

How many mornings he did that!

How many mornings I stifled my fears because I wanted to keep faith in dear Father Andrew! But I would shudder until we were well past the gate and the rose arbor that sheltered so many malicious enemies! That terror had never left me! It grew as I grew in womanhood. But now with the commonplace prick of reality the ugly fears I had conjured up for myself vanished.

"Does it hurt, dear? I can't bear to have you suffer" whispered Jim.

"Laddie, dear, what hurts isn't the pain—it's the way I've always been so afraid"——

Ashamed to Tell

I was ashamed to tell my story to my war hero. But I stumbled through it, and Jim—didn't laugh. Instead he gathered me tenderly into his arms and said:

"Anne, every one of us has a'bee' in our lives—some terror some fear. Many persons have ugly dreads that spoil their lives. Your fear is gone now. My poor little frightened sweetheart! Shan't I take you to a doctor? I don't want the finger to hurt.... You aren't frightened now, are you, dear? I'll throw out the flowers—unless you want to hold them and conquer the old dread forever."

This was exactly what I did want—and no doctor! I gloried in the ache of my finger.

There might be another bee on the flowers, but what of it? I was free of my fear. And Jim hadn't laughed at me—he understood!

We came home to our little chints room in perfect accord. My boy insisted on binding a finger in hot with hazel. But best of all—he understood.

"Happy, dear?" he asked gently.

"Perfectly, Jim. My terror—my bogey-man—is dead. And you didn't make fun of me. It was a wonderful day! Now for tomorrow and the new life together in the city."

Jim looked up and there was a strange expression in his eyes, lines of pain about his mouth—why, we're at the end of our happy day should he look suddenly—haunted?

Over in Flanders they called him "Fearless Jim." But is there a hidden terror in his life, too? And can I help him as he helped me lay my ugly little ghost? I pray that I may.

A SERIAL OF EAST AND WEST

CHAPTER XXXII.—Concluded.

HOW strong he felt in spite of the exertion he had made!

What a splendid thing it was to be as vigorous as he now was! What wonders the Summer here had done for him! Dr. Wade was a marvelous physician.

All this while his brain was still hot with excitement. Then the excitement began to evaporate, and cold reason reigned in its stead.

Not that he regretted his action. Not a bit of it. He would like to do the same thing over again.

But the thought of Dr. Wade had brought with it the mind Clifford Chapin's accusation. It was all a foul lie. He would stake his very life on that.

But how had the scoundrel dared say such a thing? How had he ever gotten such an idea into his stupid brain?

Butler knew that Chapin would not have dared make that statement if he had not fancied he had some foundation for it. John almost regretted that he had not allowed the accused to say just a little more so that he could have proved to him that he was entirely wrong in so—he was delighted that vengeance had visited the rascal as swiftly as it had.

Her name was not Lizzie Moore, and she was not Chapin's cousin.

Realizes His Love for Her

That had been the first statement the cad had made. That, at least, Butler wanted to believe, and had no trouble in believing. A fellow like Clifford Chapin could not be related by blood to such a girl as the one whom Butler had known as Lizzie Moore.

But who was she, then?

He shook his head impatiently. It was no business of his who she was. He knew she was pure and good.

He knew something else now better than he had ever known it before. He loved this girl. He had appreciated all along how he was fond of her. Now he understood that nothing else in all the whole wide world mattered compared with her.

If he had not come to the farm this Summer he would never have met her. That was another thing, besides restoration to health, that he owed to Dr. Wade.

Dr. Wade! And it had been of him that Clifford Chapin had uttered that foul calumny—of him and the girl whom John Butler loved.

He put the thought from his mind angrily. Perhaps she did know—but what of it? He simply would not think about the matter.

This was the resolve that was uppermost in his mind as he climbed the stairs to his own room.

Elizabeth Wade, lying sleepless, heard him go softly past her door, she would have given a great deal to know what he was thinking.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

IT was dawn before Elizabeth Wade fell asleep. It was breakfast time when she awoke.

Jumping up hastily, she glanced at her watch. She had slept an hour later than usual. The household must already be at the table. Mrs. Chapin had been too lenient to call her.

Dressing hastily, she hurried downstairs. She had been right. Amos and Martha Chapin, the fifth guest were still at table, but had almost finished their morning repast.

"Oh, Mrs. Chapin, I am so sorry I am late!" the girl apologized as she entered the dining room.

Something in Mrs. Chapin's face reminded Elizabeth that she had not called her "Cousin Martha." She glanced hastily at John Butler, but he had, apparently, not noticed the lapse.

He had risen at her entrance, and now stood waiting for her to sit down.

He was rather pale, she fancied, yet, as she met his glance, he smiled, and she was conscious of a sensation of immense relief.

No matter what Clifford had told him, John Butler was not angry with her.

A Hungry Dog

As she went into the kitchen a growl from the back porch startled her.

The outer door was open, but the screen-door was closed. Pressed against this, and licking into the kitchen hungrily, was Fulov Talak's dog.

"Go away, sir!" she commanded remembering that Amos Chapin had forbidden his presence near the house.

As she spoke, Talak appeared beside the dog.

"I heard you," he grinned. "You treating some breakfast now, won't you?"

She hesitated. "I don't think Mr. Chapin wants him fed here," she said. Then, with a shudder as she remembered her last encounter with this half-witted farmhand, "Take him back to the barn and feed him down there."

It is not necessary to shampoo your hair so frequently if it is entirely and properly cleansed each time by the use of a really good shampoo. The easiest to use and quickest drying shampoo that we have enjoyed at very little expense, by dissolving a teaspoonful of Canthrox, which can be obtained from any druggist's, in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just to the top of the head. This, when rubbed into the scalp and onto every strand of hair, thoroughly dissolves all impurities. It is very soothing and cooling in its action, as well as beneficial to both scalp and hair. After rinsing out the lather so created, you will find the scalp is fresh, clean and free from dandruff, while the hair dries quickly and evenly, developing a bright luster and a soft fluffiness that makes it seem very heavy.—Advertisement.

Alkali Makes Soap Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fluffy looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes away every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

Tonic-Upbuilder For Throat and Lungs

In many cases of serious illness, affecting the throat and lungs, EKMAN'S ALTERATIVE has been very beneficial. This is due largely to its readily soluble calcium compound, in combination with other ingredients that it is blended scientifically. No alcohol, narcotic or habit-forming drugs. Twenty years successful use.

50c and $1.50 Bottles, at all druggists or manufacturer, postpaid.

New, Positive Treatment to Remove Hair or Fuzz

(Beauty Notes)

Women are fast learning the value of the use of delatone for removing hair or fuzz from face, neck or arms. A paste is made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on the hairy surface. In 2 or 3 minutes it is rubbed off, the skin washed and every bit of hair has disappeared. No failure will result if you are careful to buy genuine delatone.—Advertisement.

Ray Brown and Mrs. Brown Examples of Individual Success in Different Fields

An Interesting Photograph of Mr. and Mrs. Brown

MEN and women with distinct artistic or professional ability are daily demonstrating that matrimonial partnership is no bar to the ultimate success of the talents of each, even though these talents run in different fields.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Brown are splendid examples that the successful merging of interests outside the home in no way interferes with the best measure of home life.

Mr. Brown is well known as an artist, while Mrs. Brown's name is familiar to the women of the United States for her pioneer work for suffrage. Mrs. Brown, who was envoy in France for the Women's Overseas Hospitals, has just returned to New York and will give the benefit of her experiences "over there" in a series of lectures.

Mrs. Brown is a pianiste of no mean ability. Before she became interested in suffrage she lectured before the best women's colleges in this country on music.

USED BY OUR ALLIES

(Here are some recipes endorsed by the Food Administration. Many came from our allies. Why not try them?)

EGGS A LA FLORENTINE.

Boil four eggs. Let them cool in bowl of water. Peel and divide in half.

Take the yolks and mix with one heaping tablespoonful of butter, a little salt and pepper.

Put this into saucepan with yolks of two raw eggs and white of one egg. Stir well until mixture becomes thick.

Then fill the hard-boiled whites with the stuffing; any remaining can be spread on platter.

Put ½ cup of milk in saucepan, ½ tablespoon butter, ½ tablespoon bread crumbs or cornstarch, salt, pepper. Boil a few moments; pour over eggs. Sprinkle well with cheese; put in oven to brown.

NOVEMBER FIFTH PUDDING.

Sweet potatoes, 1 pound. Milk, ½ cup. Fat, 1 tablespoon. Corn syrup (dark), 1-2 cup. Nutmeg, grated, 1 cup. Salt, ½ teaspoon.

Boil sweet potatoes in skins; peel, mash, add fat, milk, syrup, nutmeg, salt and cocoanut. Beat well, turn into greased baking dish, and bake in a moderately hot oven for about 15 minutes.

Yield: 6 servings.

OATMEAL SOUP.

Water, 2¾ quarts. Rolled oats, 1¼ cups. Potatoes, diced, 3 cups. Onions, chopped, 2. Fat, 2 tablespoons. Salt, ½ tablespoon. Pepper ½ teaspoon. Tomatoes, 1 cup.

Boil water, add oatmeal, potato, onion, salt and pepper. Cook for ½ hour. Brown fat and add to the soup. Cook until thick.

Delinquents and Health

By Brice Belden, M. D.

AN important relationship, of course, exists between the physical condition of men and their ability to support themselves. When exhausting physical diseases impair economic efficiency we get many social misfits who drift from place to place and tend to resort to alcohol and drugs. Naturally, we find a certain amount of crime.

Out of 1,000 delinquents recently examined in Boston 63 persons (63.1 per cent.) were in poor or bad health, and in such physical condition as to warrant urgent medical treatment.

Out of the 1,000 delinquents aforesaid, about 625, or 62.6 per cent., were considered self-supporting while 244, or 37.4 per cent., were not self-supporting. Thirty-five per cent. of those found to be in good or fair physical condition had been steadily employed, while only 2 per cent. of those found to be in poor or bad physical condition had been steadily employed.

Eighty-five per cent. of those found to be in good or fair physical condition had been and were still self-supporting. Ninety-six per cent. of those regularly employed were found in good or fair physical condition, while only 13.1 per cent. were found to be in poor or bad physical condition. Eighty-six and three-tenths per cent. of those who were rated as "never worked" were found to be in poor or bad physical condition, while only 13.1 per cent. were found to be in good or fair physical condition.

That a routine investigation of the physical condition of each offender, prior to the disposition of his case, is needed, needs no special argument in the light of the statistics just presented.

Justice must be tempered with mercy in such cases, for it must be remembered that those handicapped offenders were not relieved in childhood of many remediable disabilities that became foundations for adult ill health.

There are in the United States 24,000,000 children of school age, fifty per cent. of these children suffer from easily removable ailments, which, if remedied, may mean an enormous reduction in the number of criminals that our prisons have to take care of—now there are 600,000.

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

IT was a Browning automatic pistol that, in a sense, began the world war, and the Browning machine gun will probably end it, for the man who killed the Austrian Crown Prince, in July, 1914, used a Browning pistol, and the American Army will use the Browning machine guns.

John M. Browning—old J. M. they call him in Ogden, Utah, where he was born — knows more about quick-firing firearms than any man living. Apart from those weapons which bear his name, his has been the master brain behind every big improvement in rifles, shot and machine guns for forty years, though he has rarely worried about getting credit.

The Browning machine gun weighs only fifteen pounds, and can be carried and fired from the shoulder like an ordinary rifle. A heavier adaptation weighs 24½ pounds, and can give 600 shots a minute.

President Wilson has his own way of doing things, and he also has a very good reason for doing them his own way. Not only does that apply to matters of world-wide importance, but to trivial things as well.

In signing unofficial documents — on official documents he formally writes "Approved"—the President of the United States precedes his signature with the word "Okeh."

One of his secretaries, suddenly realizing the significance of the word, asked the President why he did not write "O. K."

"Because that's wrong," said Wilson.

"Wrong?" echoed the secretary. "Isn't it derived from Andrew Jackson's 'Orl Korrect?'"

"Yes," said Wilson. "O. K." is often erroneously used for 'Okeh,' which in the Choctaw language means 'It is so.'"

The Explanation

Two clerks were surprised one day by their boss, who, appearing unexpectedly, discovered them playing poker.

The old man was very indignant. "Look here!" he bellowed. "How is it that I hardly ever find you fellows working when I come in?"

"I really don't know, sir," said the younger of the lads mildly. "Unless it's on account of them rubber heels you wear!"

A Thrilling Story of an American Girl and German Intrigue in This Country

"WELLS, to begin with," Pamela explained, "he searched my room, then he locked me in here, and was proceeding to threaten me when fortunately Mr. Lutchester arrived."

"Threaten you—what about?" Fischer demanded.

"He seemed to have an absurd idea," Pamela explained sweetly, "that I might have somewhere concealed upon my person the formula which was stolen from Captain Graham last Monday week at Henry's Restaurant. It makes quite a small world of it, doesn't it?"

"I will deal with Nikazi for this," Fischer promised. "If it is true. Meanwhile?"

"No sooner have I got over that little shock," Pamela went on, "than you turn up with this melodramatic story, and an offer from Mr. Fischer, which I can read in his face. Really, I feel that I shall hear the buzz of a clockwork machine in a moment. How much do you owe him, Jimmy?"

"Eighty-nine thousand dollars," the young man groaned.

"I'll write you a cheque tomorrow morning," Pamela promised. "Will that do, Mr. Fischer?"

"It is the last thing I desire," was the calm reply.

"Really! Well, perhaps now you will come to the point. Perhaps you will tell me what it is that you do want?"

"Stolen property," Fischer announced deliberately—"stolen property, however, to which I have a greater right than you."

She laughed at him mockingly.

"I think not, Mr. Fischer," she said. "You really don't deserve it, you know."

"And why not?"

"Just see how you have bungled! You bait the trap, the poor man walks into it, and you allow another to forestall you. Not only that, but you actually allow Japan to come into the game, and for Mr. Lutchester's appearance we might both of us have been left planté là. No, Mr. Fischer! You don't deserve the formula, and you shall not have it. I'll pay my brother's debt to you in dollars—in other way."

"Dollars," Mr. Fischer told her sternly, "will never buy the forged transfer. Dollars will never keep your brother out of the city police court or Sing Sing afterwards. There isn't much future for a young man who has been through it."

Threw Him

Van Teyl was upon him suddenly with a low, murderous cry. Fischer had neither a pistol nor a knife, but no chance of success if he had attempted it. He was borne backward on to the lounge, his assailant's hand upon his throat. The young man was beside himself with drink and fury. The words poured from his lips, incoherent, but with rage.

"You—hound! You've made my life a hell! You've plotted and schemed to get me into your power! . . . There! Do you feel the life going out of you? . . . My sister, indeed! You! . . . You scum of the earth! You" . . .

"James!"

The sound of Pamela's voice unnerved him. His fit of passion was spent. She dragged him easily away.

"Don't be a fool, Jimmy!" she begged. "You can't settle accounts like that."

"Can I?" he muttered. "If we'd been alone, Pamela . . . my God, if he and I had been alone here!"

"Jimmy," she said, "you're a fool, and you've been drinking. Fetch the water bottle."

He obeyed, and she dashed water in Fischer's face. Presently he opened his eyes, groaned and sat up. There were two livid marks upon his throat. Van Teyl watched him like a crouching animal. His eyes were still lit with sullen fire. The lust for killing was upon him. Fischer sat up and blinked. He felt the atmosphere of the room, and he knew his danger. His hand stole into his hip pocket, and a small revolver suddenly flashed upon his knee. He drew a long breath of relief. He was like a fugitive who had found sanctuary.

Revolver Ready

He adjusted the revolver with a click. His cruel, long fingers were pressed around its stock.

"I am not threatening you," he went on, "I am not fond of violence, and I don't believe in it. This is just in case you come a single yard nearer to me. Now, Miss Van Teyl, my business is with you. We won't fence any longer. You will hand over to me the pocketbook which you stole from Captain Graham in Henry's Restaurant. Hand it over to me intact, you understand. In return I will give you the forged transfer of stocks, and leave it to your brother's debt or not. If you decline to consider my proposition, I shall ring up Joseph Neville, your brother's senior partner. I shall not even wait for tomorrow, mind. I shall make an appointment, and I shall place in his hands the proof of your brother's robbery."

"Perhaps," Pamela murmured, "I was wrong to stop you, Jimmy. . . . Anything else, Mr. Fischer?"

"Just this. I would rather have carried this matter through in a friendly fashion, but for reasons which I think you can guess."

She shook her head.

"You rather lack intelligence!" she told him scornfully.

"I will explain, then. I desire to offer myself as your suitor."

She laughed at him without restraint or consideration.

"I would rather marry my brother's valet!" she declared.

"You are entirely wrong," he protested. "You are wrong, too, in holding up cards against me. We are on the same side. You are an American, and so am I. I swear that I desire nothing that is not for your good. You have wonderful gifts, and I have great wealth and opportunities. I have also a sincere and very heartfelt admiration for you."

"I have never been more flattered!" Pamela scoffed.

W.J. FLYNN HERE, SAYS ALIEN FOE IS CONTROLLED

Former Head of Secret Service Declares U-boats Have No Base on Land

"The alien enemy in the United States is under control. We have little to fear from him."

So declares William J. Flynn, for twenty-one years in the United States Secret Service, and its chief for six years up to January 1, when he resigned. He is the man who has trapped some of the foremost German spies and plotters in America, as well as some of the biggest criminals.

"There isn't much to fear from the alien enemy in the United States," Mr. Flynn declared, "because the various intelligence departments of the government are watching him all the time, the naval intelligence department, the army intelligence department and the secret service.

"Very little information gets over to Germany of the great work that is going on. Of course, it is possible for a man to get across the border into Mexico and get information across in that way. I say it is possible, but I don't think it is being done.

"No I think the submarines operating off the Atlantic coast have a base or supplies in this country. I do not think they obtain their supplies from a mother ship."

Mr. Flynn would not discuss the object of his visit to Boston, which was brief. He remained at the Hotel Thorndike over night with his family of six children. One of his sons, William W. Flynn, is an ensign in the navy and another, Gerald, is attending a military academy at Cleason Point, New York. He will not be in the next draft, as he does not reach his eighteenth birthday until Spring.

MALDEN LIGHT COMPANY WILL INCREASE RATES

Commencing September 1, the price of electricity to residents of Melrose, Malden, Medford and Everett will be increased 1 cent per kilowatt hour, according to an announcement made today by the Malden and Melrose Gas and Electric Company. The increased cost of labor and all materials are given as the reason for the advance.

THEATRES

LEW FIELDS IN CLEVER WAR COMEDY

By FRED J. McISAAC.

President Wilson was in the theatre in Washington the opening night of "Friendly Enemies," and after the big third act he rose in his box and told the audience that he hoped that this beautiful play would prosper.

After such a testimonial anybody who presumes to criticise the fact that this drama by Samuel Shipman and Aaron Hoffman deals entirely with German Americans in a kindly light, must be accused of great narrowmindedness.

The German-American citizens in this country are not enjoying themselves. Although many thousands of them have given their sons to the army and navy and are just as sincerely hopeful of crushing the Kaiser as those of us who don't wear Teutonic names, they suffer from the stigma of belonging to the same race as the Germans.

GOOD PROPAGANDA.

I have no doubt that the President felt that "Friendly Enemies" would be doing a great work if it made the American people as a whole think more kindly of their loyal German-American fellow-citizens.

When the play was first produced Louis Mann and Sam Bernard occupied the two leading roles. They are now playing the piece in New York. A. H. Woods, the producer, engaged Lew Fields and Charles Winninger for the big parts in the Boston company which opened last night at the Plymouth, and the piece certainly does not suffer in their hands.

"Friendly Enemies" is good propaganda. Its intention is obviously patriotic. Furthermore it is very good entertainment. There are many bright lines, amusing situations and quaint characters.

Karl Pfeifer is a kindly old German who admires a Fatherland which has long ceased to exist. He disbelieves all tales of German ferocity and grieves bitterly that the United States has gone to war with what he considers his country, although he has lived here for thirty years.

SQUABBLE OVER WAR.

His dearest friend is another type of German, the thoroughly Americanized Teuton, who thinks only of the welfare of his own country. He hasn't lost his dialect, however, and the pair squabble over the war constantly in an amusing manner. Karl's son has quietly joined the American army and is about to sail for France. His father pleads with him not to go to shoot his relatives in the old country, but finally, of course, he lets the boy departs.

A crafty German spy gets a large money contribution from Karl to help end the war, and uses it to blow up a transport, which happens to be that on which Karl's boy is embarked.

The discovery that his money has been used for such purposes, and the supposed loss of his son, turns the old man into a raving Kaiser hater. He joins hands with his old friend and together they plot and contrive to spy just as the soldier son returns, having escaped from a watery grave. When the curtain descends he is teaching his old father and mother the words of "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

WINS SYMPATHY.

Lew Fields has traveled a long ways since he used to pole his boy pals into Joe Weber's eyes and kick him in his pneumatic stomach. His Karl was such an artistic creation that he never failed to win sympathy even when he was uttering sentiments that we don't exactly admire. In the serious moments he was as sincere and convincing as the part could possible require.

And the work of Charles Winninger, last seen here in Cohan's Revue, when he mimicked Leo Ditrichstein, was also clean cut, forceful and fine.

Plays That Remain

Park Square Theatre—"Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," the A. H. Woods farcical offering, began its second week at the Park Square last night, and in spite of the heat a large audience was on hand to enjoy this jolly and spicy entertainment. Florence Moore and John Arthur head the list of funmakers.

Wilbur Theatre—"Oh, Lady! Lady!" started its third week at the Wilbur Theatre last night with the original New York cast, headed by Vivienne Segal, Carl Randall, Theresa Maxwell Conover, Edward Abeles, Reginald Mason, Florence Shirley, Harry C. Browne, Harry Fisher and Constance Binney.

Shubert Theatre—"Maytime," the musical play of charm and with the original cast, including Charles Purcell, Peggy Wood and William Norris, is proving its worth in every performance at the Shubert where the delightful production is in for a long visit.

Majestic Theatre—"America's Answer," the official war film, began its third and last week last night, the big film has drawn very large audiences.

Tremont Temple—A moving picture of the "Battle of Verdun" "Tears in Germany," the book published by Ambassador Gerard, and "Why I Left Germany," the story told by Gerard himself, are the features at the Tremont Temple.

Marie Richard was a wholesome and natural "Widow" Malone at the Gaiety, and Adrienne Bonnell a satisfactory ingenue. Hubert Wilke as the schlemiz-nasser agent, looked and behaved as he expected such characters should. Arthur De Lord was a manly young lieutenant.

GAYETT THEATRE—The "Sporting Widow" opened up a week's engagement at the Gayety yesterday with Harry Cooper in the principal role. The production is in two acts and seven scenes, all of the most decorative order, and a number of pleasing ensembles, recitations and individual song specialties. Cooper and Joe Brown are conspicuous in the comedy end, and Mlle Jolie Kelly is pleased with her whole vocal range and appearance. Her costumes and those of Alice Lazar were of a gorgeous variety, and Miss Lazar also showed to advantage in several comedy scenes.

LANCASTER THEATRE—The two photoplays shown at the Lancaster Theatre yesterday were of the quiet style of story, thus affording the proper variety for a good program. The all-star cast was shown pictured in the screen production of Charles Klein's powerful drama, "The Guilty Man." The other photoplay was "Naughty Naughty," picturing Enid Bennett in a comedy role.

NOVEL ACTS ON BILL AT KEITH'S

Trixie Friganza and Wilton Lackaye, both well known to Boston theatre patrons, shared honors last night as co-headliners of an excellent bill at Keith's.

Trixie, resplendent and happy as ever, received a hearty welcome. Her brand new piece, "Camps," written by Jean Havez, was well received. She has some inimitable Trixie. Her new offering affords her a splendid opportunity to display the many talents which made her reputation.

GOOD CHARACTER WORK.

Wilton Lackaye, the foremost of American character actors, whose professional talents are theatrical history, presented "Quits" in an admirable fashion. His remarkable character work shows up strong in the piece. His engagement is limited to but one week.

The rest of the bill is of exceptionally high calibre. It might well be termed a big Summer festival of comedy and novelty. Harry Hines formerly of the famous team, Hines and Fox, has got a sure laugh-getter in his "The Fifty-Eighth Variety." He went big and was forced to respond with encores.

Count Perrone, the famous Italian marionne, in his first performance here, more than pleased with his series of songs. The colnut was recently invalided home from the war zone. He was ably assisted by Trix Oliver, a brilliant soprano.

UNUSUAL NOVELTY ACT.

An unusual novelty act was presented by a company of artists who have visited the historic art galleries of the world. It is billed as "A Study of Sculpture." Stephens and Hollister offered a pleasant little sketch, entitled "Out in California." It went well.

Fred and Daisy Ball were very good. Morley and McCarthy sisters, with songs and dancing, were pleasing. Moran and Wise, "In the Hat Shop," got many a good laugh. A special reel of interesting war pictures, shown at Keith's exclusively, together with the Hearst-Pathe pictures, completes the bill.

CODMAN SQUARE THEATRE—

quartet of star acts were offered at the Codman Square Theatre in conjunction with an excellent movie play program. The honors of applause were easily won by Libby & Covonne in a dancing act that was far above the ordinary, comedy having its place as well as the finer dancing art. Other acts were Barney Gilmore & Co., in the skit, "An Irish Honeymoon;" Private Louis Hart & Co. in an athletic novelty, "A Dream;" and Eddie Healey, in a singing act.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—The vaudeville programme offered at Loew's Orpheum Theatre was of the all-star variety, so good were the acts to be found. Howard & Company present a large array of unusual theatrical sensations" in a Exposition Jubilee Four, a company of colored singers and dancers, offer a lively number interspersed with songs of the most popular jazz variety. The screen bill contained the news and official war pictures, the latest Mack Sennett comedy and the photoplay "Till I Come Back to You," a production by Cecil De Mille.

MODERN THEATRE—Charlie Chaplin in his new comedy shown for the first time yesterday at the Modern Theatre easily won the honors of the bill which remains unchanged throughout the week. The title of the film is "Triple Trouble." Two serious photoplays also were shown for the first time, Pauline Frederick appearing in a picture version of Bardou's powerful drama, "Fedora," long a favorite of Bernhardt's repertoire in her days of power.

GLOBE THEATRE—There was an excellent bill of photoplays shown at Lowe's Globe Theatre yesterday, the bill remaining unchanged through the week. Clara Kimball Young was shown in "The Savage Woman," a screening of the French story "Mlle Mischief," in which she is shown in a romantic role through locale varied between France and Africa. Norman Talmadge was shown in "Her Only Way," a story of unusual charm and appeal. Fatty Arbuckle was pictured in his film farces of hospitals and ludicrous adventures.

TREMONT THEATRE—"Some Night" is a new musical comedy, book by Rida Johnson Young, which was produced last night at the Tremont Theatre by Joseph Klaw. The audience was large and appreciative and the piece went over very well. The cast includes Roma June, Forrest Winant, James Marlowe and other clever people. "Some Night" will be reviewed at length in Wednesday's American.

BEACON THEATRE—Charlie Chaplin, Pauline Frederick and Mae Marsh were the three stars in their productions which were shown for the first time in Boston at the Beacon Theatre, the bill continuing through the week. The Chaplin comedy was entitled "Triple Trouble." May Marsh was appeared in "Money Mad."

NORUMBEGA PARK—"The Brat" was presented by the Liberty Players at the Norumbega Park Theatre yesterday. There are many situations in "The Brat" which are absolutely new to playdom, and they are handled artistically by Joan Sawyer, who enacts the difficult leading role.

WALDRON'S CASINO—The attraction for the week at Waldron's Casino is the W. and W. Amusement Company's Great Star and Garter Show with Jack and Florence Darley in the leads.

Coming Attractions

Hollis St. Theatre—May Robson, in the new melodramatic farce, "A Little Bit Old Fashioned," will begin her engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre next Saturday night, August 31. Seats are now on sale.

Colonial Theatre—Raymond Hitchcock in the new "Hitchy Koo", of the 1918 edition, will open the season at the Colonial Theatre next Monday matinee, Labor Day.

Majestic Theatre—The box office sale at the Shubert-Majestic Theatre will open today for next week's attraction, "Experience," a return engagement of which has been secured to inaugurate the regular season. This will be the fourth theatre in Boston where "Experience" has been presented by William Elliott, F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest.

PROVIDENCE IS "SIZED UP" BY SUNDAY MEN

Providence, Aug. 27.—That Billy Sunday will have evidence enough to make the Providence campaign long remembered, is the belief of workers who say they have made a systematic search for unlawful conditions and say they were amazed at what they learned.

Two Boston speakers at the "rally" of the committee of one hundred told of the good results after the Boston campaign. The speakers were of the opinion that this city is sadly in need of a rousing such as is guaranteed when "Billy Sunday starts after them."

Just what evidence is gathered is kept a secret and will be poured into the ears of the preacher when he arrives in the city, it is said meantime Dr. James E. Walker, "live wire" advance representative, is busying himself with details which the committee claim tend to make the campaign a most effective efficiency.

The opposition to the visit of Billy Sunday is not lacking any grass grow under their feet, and, while efforts to thwart the erection of the tabernacle and other details have gone for naught, it is generally understood that many of the preacher will be ridiculed.

Versus many arguments heard about the preacher is one told by a man who says former years I was fairly intoxicated. In addressing a gathering seated about a table upon which was placed bottles of alcohol failed to intoxicate, the old-timer said:

"Billy Sunday is a great scout and will always be a man with a wonderful personality. I have heard of his defying the Devil and calling people all sorts of names, and I am going to see him the minute he hits this hamlet."

"The more I recall Billy the more I am satisfied that he can do lots of good. Those who fear Billy Sunday is afraid of the truth."

BLAKE BODY, HEADLESS, WASHED UP IN THE SURF

Siasconset, Aug. 27.—Finding of the headless body of Warren Barton Blake, a well known writer and newspaper man, in the surf about two miles from the Surfside life saving station, puzzles the police and Coast Guard authorities who had been scouring since Monday, August 19. He came to Siasconset the Sunday previous, and on Monday walked down to go in bathing, after giving $50 to a friend to keep for him. He went to the Siasconset Cottage Club to keep for him.

On Tuesday his clothing was found on the beach, the body was not miles from the customary bathing beach. Blake was 25 years old and unmarried; a graduate of Harvard and of the Delancey School, Philadelphia, where he had been an editor and writer on the Saturday Evening Post; associate editor of the Independent Magazine, New York; and on the staff of Collier's Weekly. He had recently returned from France, where he was engaged in Red Cross work.

MALDEN BOY TARGET FOR U-BOAT TORPEDOES

James L. Ryan, No. 17 Dartmouth street, Malden, has returned to Malden after taking a whack at the Kaiser's subjects as a member of the crew of a munitions ship, at the tender age of 16 years. Too young to enlist, Ryan joined the crew by signing with the Shipping Board. On the return trip his vessel was attacked by a submarine two days off the United States coast, the torpedoes being fired at the vessel, which returned the fire with its guns. No damage was done.

LAWRENCE MAN IS SEVERELY WOUNDED

Lawrence, Aug. 27.—Sergeant John McNulty, known to readers of Lawrence newspapers as "Johnny Mack" under which name he wrote prior to his departure for service, has been severely wounded in action. In a letter to his mother Mrs. Mary T. McNulty, No. 69 Lexington street, he relates that he has been over the top so many imes he hasn't had chance to keep track of the number. On his last trip he says he allowed a piece of shrapnel to get too near to him.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN AUGUST 27, 1918. BOSTON.

Let Us Devote a Day to Honoring Our Dead Heroes

In every age and in every clime men have died for the dear sake of Liberty, and always the verdict of time is that they have done well so to die.

To those who lay the last supreme offering upon the altar of liberty the future is certain to render honor and homage.

But it seems to us that it is altogether fitting that the present should also honor and acclaim those who have just laid down their lives for the safety and the renown of their country and the defence of the common rights and liberties of mankind.

There are many of our dead in France, many whose young lives have been lost within these past few days of battle and victory.

A little while ago and these brave young Americans were elate with hope, joyous with bodily vigor, full of anticipation of victory and of return to their homes. For while the soldier knows that battle must claim its toll of dead, each fondly hopes in his heart that no enemy bullet carries his billet.

But to each his fate. It was written for these who have fallen that they were to die gloriously; that their lifeblood was to be poured out as an oblation to freedom; that theirs was to be the death of heroes and eternal community with the noble company of martyrs and just men made perfect through the supreme sacrifice. So now they lie in a foreign land and their homes shall see them nevermore.

To fathers and mothers and wives and sisters and sweethearts there is left only the first natural tears and sorrow and the enduring, splendid, patriotic pride that their dear ones died so nobly and to such glorious purpose.

But to the community there is left not only the common pride in the valor and the achievements of these dead who have died for all our sakes, but also the solemn obligation to pay rightful honor to their names and memories.

And that obligation we should perform while yet their deeds are fresh in men's mouths; while yet their graves are newly turned.

We should not wait until time has dulled the edge of admiration or the march of vast events has obliterated the personal recollections which are now so vivid.

Let us, therefore, hold now—now, while the thunder of the guns still shakes the soil in which these dead of ours sleep in honor and in glory—a great celebration of their valor, their deeds, their victory and their sacrifice.

We think that this city should so celebrate its heroes' deeds and so honor their memories.

We think that it would be indeed fine and fitting were the Mayor to summon the people in metropolitan Boston to gather in such a memorial celebration.

We feel sure that thousands of patriotic hearts would respond enthusiastically to such a summons.

The snows of more than fifty Winters have robed in white the graves of those who died in the great war this nation fought within its own borders for freedom's sake, and as each returning Spring replaced those robes of white with robes of vernal green, we have all gone forth with flowers in our hands and pride in our hearts to celebrate the Memorial Day of those who died so many years ago.

A beautiful and a wonderful day is that Memorial Day in May each year.

Let us have another like it this Fall—not a permanent holy day, because in years to come those brave young men who have just died will have their part in all succeeding Memorial Days with their fathers who died before them that Liberty might live, but a single day of spontaneous tribute, a day in which we can all gather to express in one mighty outburst of public acclaim and honor the emotions which swell now in every individual heart.

Let us have a Memorial Day for our heroes who have just died.

Suppose we call it Heroes' Day.

The name matters little, to be sure.

But Heroes' Day seems fitting and expressive.

What say you, good people—shall we pay this tribute of honor to our dead who have just died so gloriously?

Would it not be a wise and proper thing for Mayor Peters to proclaim such a holy day?

Does it not seem to all of you to be not only a high privilege but a solemn obligation and a glad duty thus to pay publicly this city's debt of gratitude and pride to those who have so gloriously fallen in the vanguard of America's Army of Freedom?

That splendid army, scorning its victorious way through the raging hell of frightfullest battle, and beating down the enemy under its mighty blows—that untried army driving the foe before it in headlong rout in the very clash of arms, while all Europe looked on in wonder and amazement—how our hearts are glad as we hear and tell of its valor and its deeds!

Honor and glory to those who yet live to fight on other fields!

And honor and glory to those who fell in the forefront of their first battle!

Honor and gratitude to the living!

Honor and gratitude to the dead!

And let us prove to the living in arms the depth and sincerity of our emotions by splendidly displaying in public fashion the feelings with which we regard their comrades who have fallen on the red edges of the battle.

Let us steal a day from public and private cares and dedicate it to a mighty celebration in honor of our dead heroes.

CAMOUFLAGE NECESSARY FOR OUR MODESTY

By Winifred Black

"IS modesty a virtue or a fault?"—

"Neither," said Mildred. "It is a mistake."

The question was asked by Aunt Lois, our suave, gentle hostess, in the house by the sea, where the Summer days are being spent by as many friends as can get away from war work for a week—each guest glad of a little bit of heaven to help one keep alive these strange, uncertain days.

In little squads they come, for week-ends, or a week, each group giving place to another, after a few days. For Aunt Lois takes this way of helping the workers during her own hard-earned Summer vacation.

The talk around the big round table had drifted—or been steered, rather—to the social problems that perplex the medical world, and the young girls listened eagerly to the frank talk of the young army surgeon who was explaining the medical horrors of the fight with the diseases of disgraced and brutalized mankind.

It was in the first pause in the talk that Aunt Lois, reverting to the days of our childhood, had said, "Come, let's talk of birds and flowers!"

The young surgeon, being a well-bred man, nodded assent, and as he had the floor immediately changed to some safe subject, but the flushed cheeks and bright eyes around the table told how strong was the general protest against the fiat of our hostess.

False Delicacy

There is no keeping down a fanatic, though, and the youngest man present insisted upon resuming the obnoxious discussion by a leading question aimed at the doctor. He asked if a false reserve and delicacy were not the main cause of most of the terrible evils which afflict the world.

The doctor gravely bowed his assent, and it was then that Aunt Lois asked her question and received the half laughing, half earnest reply of her niece, Mildred.

Then, in a general gale of laughter, the tea table was deserted.

But that night, after the music and dancing had ended, the feminine half of the house party was gathered in Aunt Lois' big room, laughing and chatting while Aunt Lois brushed her shining silver hair.

"And now I want to say something," said our hostess, in her even, clear voice. "Please let me tell what I feel and think about this new fad of discussing former forbidden subjects by men, women, girls and boys in any and all places. Yes, all kinds of places, public and private, at home, on street cars, everywhere the morbid, tainted things of degraded, bestial life are exploited. I do not believe good comes of it.

Hardens and Harms

"I would not bring to the group on the porch, or the mixed assembly at the dinner table, the details of either physical or moral disease. More than that, I firmly believe that true reserve and modesty are necessary to preserve the fairest flower of virtue in women and men.

"But," said the college-bred Mildred, "there are ugly facts at the very roots of being—men must be told."

"Men are told, and must be told," rejoined Aunt Lois, "but they need not be discussed in general society, or by men with women. Whoever can read can learn what must be known to protect life and health. Father and mother and schools still exist, and to them we must look to instruct young people about the ugly facts of life. But I believe that no one has to be dragged through the mud in order to learn to keep out of the mud.

A HUSBAND WRITES OF SLACKER WIFE

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

SLACKER! It is a word of disdainful meaning, a term of reproach coined at the beginning of the war to designate those who in one form or another shirked service for their country. But it was too pat, too expressive to be localized, and is now frequently used to describe anyone who evades his responsibilities or lies down on his job.

After all, isn't the manner in which we meet our responsibilities the final test of character? The slacker simply doesn't meet them. He goes all around Robin Hood's barn to avoid making their acquaintance. As an illustration of the faultless and finished slacker, I submit the following letter:

"Dear Madam: I have been married twenty years. I simply worshipped my wife. I would do so still if she were only half way square. We have several children but for a number of years she has been in the habit of departing from home whenever she chose, leaving myself and the children for weeks at a time, going about where she pleased and receiving many attentions from men.

Neglects House

"She neglects the house, neglects the children, neglects everything but her own selfish desires. The result is that the children are showing the effects of the poor food and care they receive, and are growing very anemic.

"I have been not only willing but anxious to do the right thing by my wife and children, and have done it to the best of my ability. Now, though, I am utterly discouraged. I am at work all day and return tired to my disorderly and uncared-for home. I provide proper food and comforts, and my wife is well dressed. Can you explain the inconsistency of such a character? There are plenty like her. They gad from morning to night, reach home about three minutes before their husbands do, and then deliberately lie about how hard-worked they are. Respectfully, X."

It is an exceeding bitter cry, and who could blame the poor man. He certainly puts his finger on one of the slacker's most marked characteristics—the effort to camouflage his or her worthlessness by moaning about multiple and onerous duties.

Since she has been married for twenty years, this woman cannot offer excuses on the score of youth and inexperience. She has made a deliberate choice of the things which she considers worth while, and by this choice is she to be judged.

Women of this type regard themselves as respectable. They have achieved honorable marriage; they have contributed future citizens to the republic; they would be more than grieved, they would be insulted if any one were to insinuate that instead of being an ornament to the State, they are a menace because they have voluntarily assumed certain obligations and then welshed on the payment.

More Interested

The State, by the way, is becoming very much interested in its little children. Ways and means of conserving their health and saving them from the dire effects of improper feeding and malnutrition are being thoroughly discussed and considered. It is becoming more and more generally understood that the health, happiness and usefulness of the adult depends upon the intelligent care which he has received in infancy and his early years.

In spite of some conspicuous and suffering examples, the great majority of persons find that their success in life, their capacity for application, is largely measured by their strength of constitution. The beasts that perish give their young all the care necessary to their growth. It has remained for some human mothers to exhibit indifference, cruelty and neglect of their offspring.
